Draft Rule Hits Grad Students

By LUCILLE HOWARD
Star Staff Writer

University of Nebraska departments of chemistry and physics were hit the hardest by the elimination of graduate student draft deferments, according to NU officials.

Graduate student enrollment in each of the two divisions is down about 10%, department chairmen reported, while overall graduate student enrollment only dropped about 4%.

A total of 2,539 students, including 104 at the NU Medical Center in Omaha, registered for the fall semester. That is 92 less than the number enrolled for the 1967 fall semester.

'Not as Great'

The impact of the June 1967 ruling that men graduating from college or finishing their first year of graduate school in 1968 could no longer obtain student deferments was not as great as originally anticipated, acting Graduate College Dean Benjamin McCashland indicated.

He predicted that the most noticeable impact will be next fall after draft boards have had a longer period of time to select men for military service who held student deferments for part of the year.

Nationally, graduate schools were far from being as empty as educators had warned they would be. Most believe that low draft calls encouraged many students to gamble on enrolling in graduate school with the hope that they would be allowed to finish a semester.

Selective Service Director Lt. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey has indicated that graduate students will be permitted to postpone their induction until the end of the first semester, if drafted.

However, the Selective Service has not issued a formal guideline and the final decision still rests with state and local draft boards.

In addition, many state and local boards have been lenient in granting occupational deferments in areas such as teaching. This enables students to enroll in graduate school while they hold full-time teaching positions.

Made Changes

The NU chemistry and physics departments, which normally use many graduate students as teaching assistants in the numerous laboratory courses, have appointed some full-time instructors and increased the number of undergraduate teaching assistants used.

Five instructors — three in chemistry and two in physics — have been named from the graduate teaching assistants. Their double work-load replaces the equivalent of five teaching assistants who were not available.

The physics department is using at least four undergraduate assistants and chemistry has employed 11. The students, used primarily as laboratory aides and test graders, fill positions equivalent to half-time graduate teaching assistants.

At least two of the newly-appointed instructors are known to have recently received notice of 1-A draft status.

'Incidental'

Chemistry Chairman Dr. Norman Cromwell acknowledged it is "true" that the academic appointment of instructor would probably increase the chance for an occupational deferment although he termed the reason "incidental" in the selection of the graduate students for the positions.

Physics chairman Dr. Henry Alk said he "would assume" the occupational status would be more favorable. However, he emphasized, as in the chemistry department the selection was from those students who had had one year of graduate work.

Both deplored the unstable situation in connection with the draft, noting that the final statistics do not reflect the numerous graduate students who applied and were accepted at NU but were drafted before the fall term began.

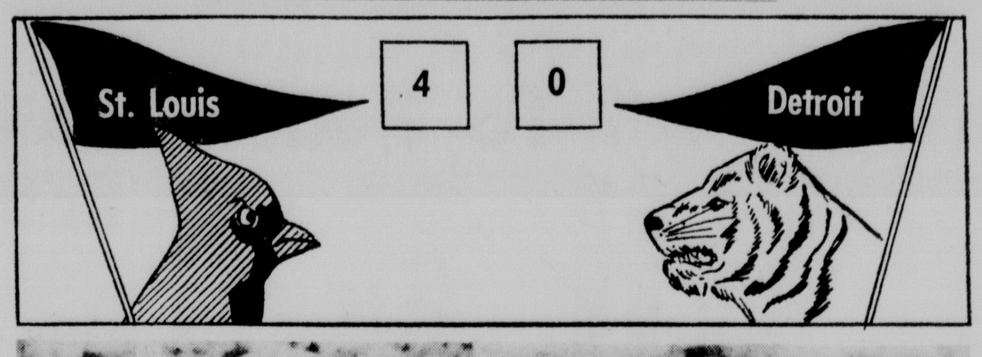
'Day-To-Day'

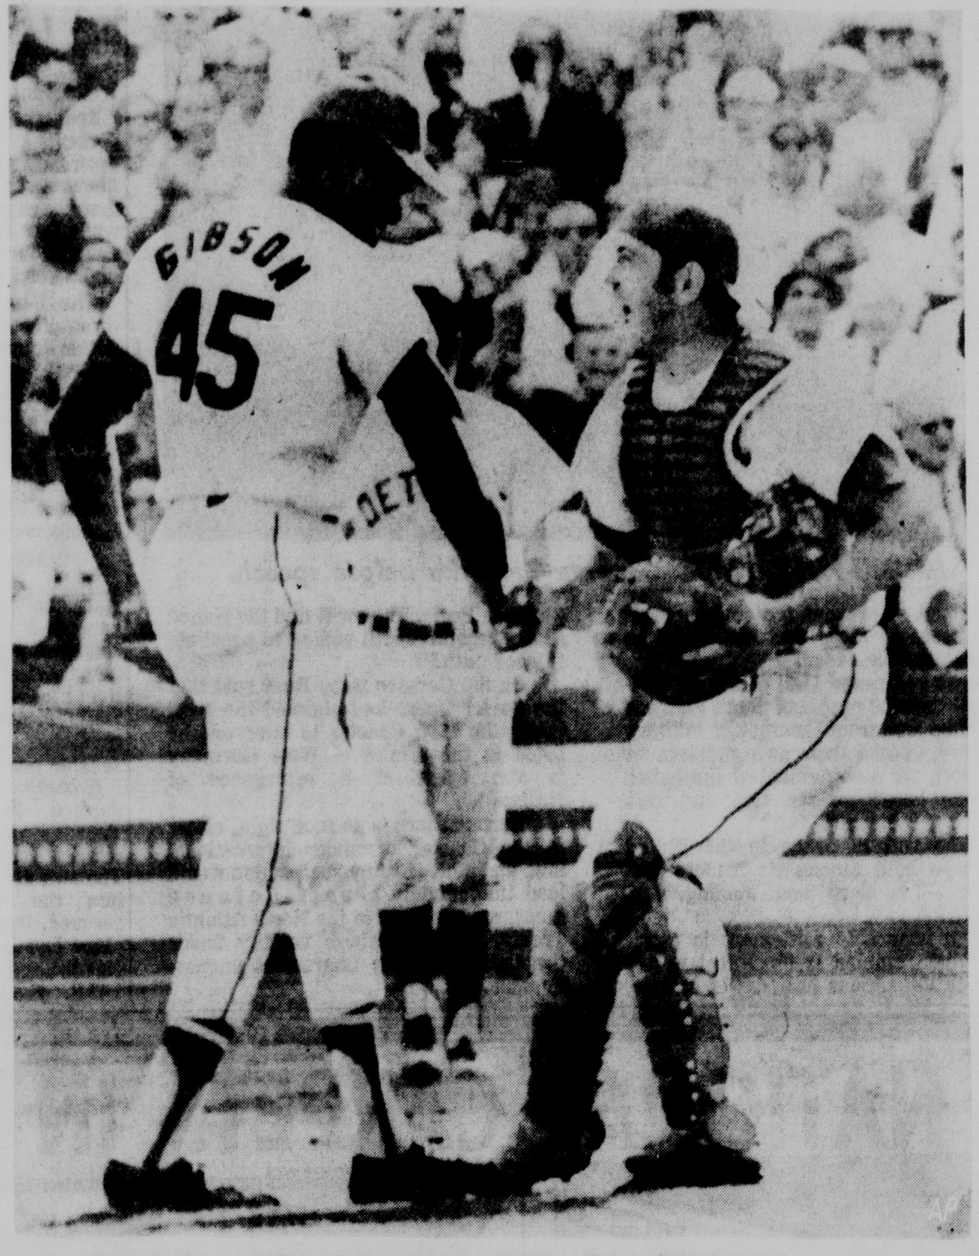
Cromwell described the situation as a "day-to-day" operation, as some assistants have left since the beginning of the semester.

The two chairmen also complained about "illogical" procedures in that the Selective Service apparently considers the training of undergraduate students crucial — and therefore eligible for deferment — but "does not consider the persons needed to do the training crucial."

As a result, even fewer graduate students than in previous years are left for departments with rapidly increasing undergraduate enrollments.

SENATE ACTION 'TRAGIC'





GIBSON CONGRATULATED ON RECORD WIN

LBJ Withdraws Fortas Name To Head Court

. . . NOMINEE MAKES REQUEST; JOHNSON COMPLIES

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson, at Abe Fortas' request, withdrew his nomination for chief justice Wednesday and termed the Senate's refusal to confirm Fortas "historically and constitutionally tragic."

Fortas' request, delivered to the White House Wednesday forenoon, was written Tuesday afternoon shortly after the Senate had refused to end filibuster engineered by Republican and Southern Democratic opponents of the nomination.

'With Deep Regret'

Johnson complied "with deep regret," saying he still believed the associate justice, an old friend and confidant, was "the best qualified man for this high position."

Fortas told Johnson that further efforts in his behalf, even if ultimately successful, "would result in a continuation of the attacks upon the court which have chacterized the filibuster — attacks which have been sometimes extreme and entirely unrelated to responsible criticism."

In a two-paragraph statement, Johnson replied:

"With deep regret I have accepted and concur in the request of Mr. Justice Fortas and am withdrawing his nomination as chief justice of the United States. I believed when I made this nomination, and I believe now, that he is the best qualified man for this high position. The action of the Senate, a body I revere and to which I devoted a dozen years of my life, is historically and constitutionally tragic.

Constitutional Duty

"I urge all involved with and concerned about our Constitution and its form of government to pledge now that this shall be no precedent and that the Senate hereafter will act by majority will and never fail to address itself to the issues which it has the constitutional duty to answer."

It was the first time in history the Senate had blocked confirmation of a Supreme Court nominee by filibuster. And not since 1795, when it rejected Geoge Washington's choice of John Rutledge of South Carolina, had the Senate refused to confirm a chief justice nominee.

Fortas' 1½-page letter said more senatorial attacks on the court "would be especially inappropriate and harmful to the court and the nation if they should continue while the court is in session, engaged in the adjudication of issues of great importance to the nation as well as to the litigants."

Griffin: 'Wise'

Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., who led the fight against Fortas, said, "A chief justice should have widespread support among the people and within the Senate. In view of the obvious deep division and controversy, it is a wise decision."

Another anti-Fortas leader, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said, "This is the wisest decision Fortas has made since he has been on the Supreme Court. I think he might go a step further now and resign from the Supreme Court for the sake of good government."

Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen, who started out as a Fortas supporter but switched to the other side at the last minute, said Fortas "obviously must have come to the conclusion it was the prudent thing to do."

Removal of Fortas from the picture left two matters hanging — what will happen to Chief Justice Earl Warren's plan to retire and what will happen to Johnson's nomination of Federal Circuit Judge Homer W. Thornberry to fill the associate justice post that would have been vacated had Fortas been elevated.

Warren retired with the stipulation that he would not actually leave office until his successor was confirmed.

The White House gave no hint what the President would do now to make it possible for Warren to retire, but a spokesman said Johnson would discuss the matter with Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and other "appropriate advisers."

Several Said Killed In Mexico City Battle

Mexico City (AP) — Striking students, some armed with automatic weapons, battled army troops and police close to downtown Mexico City Wednesday night in the bloodiest outburst against the government of President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz. Dozens of buses, trolley cars and automobiles burned in the streets.

News correspondents and other witnesses at the battle scene reported at least a score of persons killed and hundreds wounded. The newspaper Excelsior said its count during the fighting was 16 dead.

Gen. Marcelino Garcia Barragan, the defense secretary, said he had orders to crush the student uprising at any cost.

The battle, the result of nine weeks of struggle against the government, cast a shadow over the 1968 Olympic Games due to open here Oct. 12.

Garcia said there were deaths on both sides but he declined to say how many. He reported, however, one army corporal was killed and 12 other army men wounded, including a paratrooper battalion commander, Gen. Jose Hernandez Toledo.

Thousands of persons were believed under arrest at military posts.

The battle started with a student clash with police. The army entered the fighting when snipers began firing from buildings, Garcia said.

Late in the evening the shooting died down but sporadic gunfire was heard in the battle area.

An Associated Press photographer reported seeing "many" bodies in the Plaza of the Three Cultures, just blocks away from the downtown area, of persons shot down in an exchange of automatic gunfire.

Another Associated Press man saw at least two civilians killed and 10 wounded in front of the foreign ministry, apparently victims of a civilian sniper posted in an apartment building above.

All the victims had been holding their hands aloft while army troops held them at gunpoint.

Troops in armored cars opened up with machine guns on student snipers, and gangs of youths roamed streets, shooting and throwing gasoline bombs.

An American cameraman said a motorcycle policeman was shot dead at his side. The photographer, Carl Sorenson of Columbia Broadcasting System, said troops smashed his camera and held him prisoner for more than an hour.

The battle was the latest and probably the worst outbreak in a campaign of demonstrations, occasionally marked by violence, by students objecting to what they say is government repression.

The dead were reported to include soldiers, students and bystanders who had been trapped in the battle. Women and children were reported among the wounded.

Dr. Fay Smith Dies; Educator, Physician

Omaha (UPI) — Dr. Fay Smith, a member of the State Health Board, died Wednesday afternoon at Clarkson Hospital here. He had been confined following a stroke on Sept. 21.

Smith, 59, was an assistant dean at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, a professor of general practice and coordinator of continuing education at the school.

Smith was a native of Bellwood. He attended Bellwood High School for three years and was a graduate of Lincoln High School. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Nebraska in 1931 and his doctorate from the University's Medical College in 1933.

He interned at University Hospital in Omaha and then practiced medicine at Imperial from 1934 to June of 1965, at which time he joined the faculty of the College of Medicine.

He was a member of the State Hospital Advisory Board prior to becoming a health board member. The advisory board administers federal Hill-Burton funds in the state.

Smith was a member of the board of trustees of Nebraska Wesleyan University, served two terms as mayor of Imperial and 12 years on the Imperial School Board, served on the Governor's Committee on Mental Health and the Governor's Committee on Crippled Children, and was past president of the Nebraska State Medical Society and the University of Nebraska Alumni Association.

He served on the National Civil Rights Commission under the administration of former President Eisenhower.

Smith was a delegate to the National Republican Convention four times, not including the past convention.

He was a past grand master of the Nebraska Masonic Lodge and former district governor of Lions International. He was on the board of directors of the Masonic Home for the Aged of Plattsmouth. In 1963 he was named an honorary member of the Innocents Society at the University of Nebraska.

Smith was a member of the American Medical Association and the American Academy of General Practitioners and the International College of Surgeons.

DR. FAY SMITH

In addition, he was a board member of Nebraska Blue Cross Blue Shield.

Survivors include his widow, Josephine, two daughters, one sister and seven grandchildren.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. MDT Friday at the United Methodist Church in Imperial, with burial at the Imperial cemetery. Memorial services will be held at 3 p.m. CDT Friday at the First Methodist Church in Omaha.

State Health Director Lynn W. Thompson said Dr. Smith will be "greatly missed" by the people of Nebraska and his profession.

Dr. Smith was just beginning his second term on the State Board of Health and had previously served on the state hospital advisory council for 12 years.

"Dr. Smith carried the respect of the state board as well as the practitioners of medicine in Nebraska," Dr. Thompson said. "He put interests of the people ahead of interests of his profession."

Gov. Norbert T. Tiemann called Dr. Smith a "truly dedicated physician, educator and public servant."

He will be long remembered for his years of service to the State of Nebraska and the University of Nebraska College of Medicine, Tiemann said. "Dr. Smith was a true humanitarian."

Student At Brownell Dies; Check Of Classmates Urged

Parents of kindergarten students at Brownell School were advised Wednesday to take their children to their family doctors in an attempt to prevent the spread of a disease which Wednesday claimed the life of one student.

The victim, Charles Henry West, 5, died at a hospital after being ill about 14 hours with meningococcus septicemia, according to Dr. Harry D. Shaffer, who treated the boy.

The boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth West of 5441 Martin.

Dr. Shaffer said the fulminating (sudden and intense) disease is very often fatal, especially in children, because of the rapid spread of the bacteria through the blood stream.

The bacteria which causes the disease is the same one which causes spinal meningitis, Dr. Shaffer said.

According to County Health Director Dr. George Underwood, the disease is not highly contagious. The carrier rate must ually reach 20 or 30% before a case develops, he said.

Dr. Underwood said he suggested that notes be sent home with the Brownell kindergarten students to advise parents that a family doctor should be consulted.

He said if an antibiotic is administered, it kills the bacteria on any carriers of the disease.

Mrs. Evelyn Morrow, principal of Brownell School, said that other grades at the school did not receive the notes. The kindergarten class uses its own restrooms, own entrance to the building and did not leave the room Wednesday, she said.

Surviving the West boy, besides his parents, are: brothers, Kenneth Jr., and Richard A., and sisters Mary Ethel and Carrie Marie, all at home, and grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. West and Mrs. Henry Brown, all of Lincoln.

New York Times News Summary

Rusk Warns Russia Against Push In Germany

(c) New York Times News Service

France Warns Russia

Paris — French Foreign Minister Michel Debre told the national assembly that the Soviet Union had unleashed a "violent campaign" against West Germany as a "diversionary" maneuver to obscure the consequences of the August invasion of Czechoslovakia. He warned the Russian leaders that they had to choose between "detente" and a return to the cold war in which "military considerations would be put above all others."

Harriman Disputes Nixon

Paris — Ambassador-at-large Averell Harriman has denied that Vice President Humphrey's latest proposal, on stopping the bombing of North Vietnam would have "adverse effects" on the Vietnam talks as Richard M. Nixon has suggested. The North Vietnamese officially rejected the Humphrey proposal as another "deceitful wording" of the American demand for "reciprocity." (Another Story on Page 34.)

Fortas' Withdrawal Accepted

Washington — Abe Fortas withdrew as President Johnson's nominee for chief justice of the United States after the Senate refused to cut off a filibuster by his opponents. (More on Page 1.)

Antimissile Reaffirmed

Washington — Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., told the Senate that "the argument for a 'thin' missile system rests on 'thin' ground." But the Senate, working in an unusual secret session, voted 45-25 against eliminating $387.4 million to begin deploying the Sentinel antiballistic missile system from the record $71.8 billion defense appropriation bill. (More on Page 45.)

Nixon Chides Planners

Norfolk, Va. —Speaking at the site of the nation's biggest naval base here, Richard M. Nixon chided "euphoric planners" in the Defense Department for ignoring a Soviet threat to American superiority on the high seas. (More on Page 13.)

'Madison Avenue Isn't America'

Charlotte, N.C. — Asked by a TV interviewer how he felt about using television as a major campaign device, Vice President Humphrey replied: "Madison Avenue isn't America." The Democratic presidential candidate said the people want to know a candidate — "to look at him, feel him, touch him, smell him." (More on Page 20.)

Wallace Rally Shifted

New York — Campaign organizers for George C. Wallace canceled plans for a rally at Shea Stadium, which holds 60,000 people, and rescheduled it for Oct. 24 in Madison Square Garden, which holds 20,000. They said the city's dicision to appeal the court decision allowing them use of the stadium left them with too little time to make arrangements.

U.S. Denounces Invasion As Peril To Peace

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) —Secretary of State Dean Rusk denounced the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia Wednesday as repugnant and dangerous to world peace, and challenged the Russians to make good their promises of a military withdrawal.

In a major policy speech to the 125-nation General Assembly, interrupted at the outset by Vietnam peace shouters, Rusk declared the United States will end the bombing of North Vietnam "the minute we can be confident this will lead toward peace."

He warned the Soviet Union that the United States and its western allies would not tolerate the threat or use of force against West Berlin or West Germany.

On the Middle East, he urged Israel and the Arabs to take advantage of a "small and precious momentum toward peace" and cooperate with the mission of U.N. envoy Gunnar Jarring.

First

It was the first policy speech delivered by Rusk at the United Nations since his appointment in 1961. It represented also the policy of an administration which will hand over the reins of government to a new U.S. president in less than four months.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko listened impassively to the 37-minute speech. He and other Communist bloc leaders did not join in the applause at the conclusion. Gromyko will deliver the Soviet policy speech Thursday.

Six men and three women, ranging in age from 16 to 38, took part in the brief heckling of Rusk.

They shouted slogans and displayed banners in the public gallery reading "Stop the War in Vietnam" and "Big Firms Get Rich, GIs Die" before they were removed by U.N. guards.

'Wave of Indignation'

On the invasion of Czechoslovakia, Rusk declared: "This act has sent a shock wave of indignation and apprehension around the world, and has shaken hopes for better East-West relations.

"A world which had begun to speak of a thaw in the cold war feels once again a chill of apprehension concerning Soviet purpose."

Provisions in the U.N. Charter guaranteeing the security of small nations have been brushed aside by the Soviet Union, Rusk said.

'Crude' Advice

"The United Nations has been told, in a singularly crude phrase, not to 'stick its nose' into the affairs of any of its members that happen to lie in Eastern Europe within the reach of Soviet armies."

"Does it mean that the Soviet Union's doctrine of 'peaceful coexistence' does not apply to its own allies or those with the same social system?" Rusk added.

"When will the Soviet Union, whose international relations are subject to the United Nations Charter, make good on its own repeated promise by removing its occupying forces from Czechoslovakia?

Charter Read

"Let us say very plainly to the Soviet Union: The road to detente is the road of the Charter."

He said that while recent events have dealt a blow to international confidence it was essential to make progress in nuclear arms control.

"We would be ready to explore the feasibility of a viable and effective agreement to prevent the emplacement of weapons of mass destruction on the ocean floor," he added.

SMILING RUSK, right . . . meets Gromyko before speech.

Rusk reiterated U.S. policy on Vietnam — that the people of South Vietnam should be free from Communist military pressure, choose their own government and work for a settlement of the entire question based on the 1954 and 1962 Geneva agreements.

"The will to peace in the United States — both among its leaders and people — is deep and abiding," he declared.

"An honorable settlement is possible. What remains is for Hanoi to get down to the serious business of making peace in Paris. They will find the United States receptive and willing to negotiate in good faith."

On the German issue Rusk said that the Soviet Union had claimed the right under the U.N. Charter to intervene by force in the affairs of West Germany in the event of a resurgence of Nazism.

He said there is no such right, either in the Charter or under international law, and added: "Any such action would lead immediately to self-defense measures pursuant to the North Atlantic Treaty, a treaty whose validity under the United Nations Charter is unquestionable."

Tass Says Rusk Uses 'Cold War Overtones'

Moscaw (AP) — The official Soviet news agency Tass accused Secretary of State Dean Rusk Wednesday of making a speech with "cold war overtones" to the United Nations.

Tass said in a report from New York that Rusk sought "to cast doubts on the motives of the Soviet Union" in talking about the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

It called his language "reminiscent of John Foster Dulles," who was secretary of state under President Eisenhower.

Battleship, Aircraft Batter Red Targets

World News

Saigon (AP) — The battleship New Jersey and U.S. aircraft pounded enemy targets in North Vietnam while ground fighting in the South tapered off to scattered skirmishes, the U.S. Command reported Wednesday.

Spokesmen said the New Jersey's 16-inch guns destroyed six enemy bunkers about seven miles north of the demilitarized zone Tuesday, while her 5-inch batteries accounted for five more bunkers and a storage area.

The 5-inchers also scored three direct hits on an observation tower along the northern edge of the DMZ, spokesmen said.

The 56,080-ton New Jersey went on the firing line Monday in the South China Sea. Her bombardments brought a response Wednesday from the Hanoi government.

'Vicious, Barbarous'

Radio Hanoi broadcast a statement by the North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry condeming the United States for "vicious and barbarous battleship bombardments while claiming it has de-escalated the war and is seeking peace in Vietnam."

A Marine A4 Skyhawk was downed by ground fire Tuesday while flying a spotter mission for the New Jersey. The two crewmen parachuted into the sea and were rescued. It was the 902nd U.S. plane lost in combat over the North.

U.S. fighter-bombers flew 120 missions over North Vietnam Tuesday through moderate to heavy antiaircraft fire. Navy pilots reported surface-to-air missiles were launched northwest of Vinh, but all aircraft evaded the SAMs.

The pilots reported destroying or damaging 44 supply craft, 7 trucks and 20 structures; cutting roads in 15 places, and setting off 26 secondary explosions and 29 fires.

Over South Vietnam, U.S. B52 Stratofortresses flew seven missions late Tuesday and early Wednesday, hitting at troop concentrations, base camps and storage areas.

Spokesmen said the targets were in Phu Bon province in the central highlands and Binh Duong province direcly north of Saigon.

Gage Co. Welfare 'Not Authorized' To Move Patients, Raise Payments

. . . AT BEATRICE HOSPITAL

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — Lutheran Hospital's announced refusal of future welfare patients has prompted a reply from Gage County's Welfare Director that "we're not authorized to move anybody."

Noting that all welfare patients pay some portion for their care, Director Gilbert Emery emphasized that they are in reality private patients. Thus, he explained, the department has no intention of complying with a hospital request to remove them.

Hospital Administrator Emory Giannangelo had announced that such patients will be refused after Oct. 22 unless county compensation is increased. His directors contend the hospital has lost more than $150,000 over the past three years on welfare cases.

Emery disputed the hospital's claim that it is receiving the maximum monthly payment, set by the State Welfare Department at $300, on only one patient. He said the maximum is being paid on 18 of the 20 Gage patients in the hospital.

An average $150 is paid for 16 patients in the Grace Convalescent Home, a nursing home adjunct. Giannangelo said this approximates present costs at the facility but that these will increase as wage demands are met.

"I'm not going to jail for anybody, and this is what would happen if I paid even $1 over the amount authorized by the state," continued Emery. "I've been trying to explain that to Mr. Giannangelo for several months." ths."

The director said he is in agreement that the limit should be raised at the state level. "I think all of us feel this way, but our hands are tied," he stated.

ROGERS SAYS GAGE PATIENTS WILL BE MOVED

State Welfare Director Harold Rogers said Wednesday that Gage County long-term care welfare patients at Lutheran Hospital at Beatrice will probably be transferred to nursing homes.

"Gage County officials are working on the problem," he said in the wake of Lutheran Hospital's request that 41 welfare patients be transferred by Oct. 22 or compensation rates increased.

Rogers said a check of the records of the 41 patients indicate they do not need hospital care but long-term convalescent or nursing home care.

In the past, the hospital evidently has accepted and retained these welfare patients at nursing home rates, but now realize it no longer can afford to do so, he said.

Rogers said county rates are usually predicated upon the nursing home rate for the area, and these patients should be in a long-term care facility rather than a hospital for acute care.

Hospital costs are higher than for a nursing home, he said, and medical records indicate these patients do not require hospital-type care.

Ammonia Leak Threat Eased At Alexandria

Alexandria — A gusting north wind and the hoses of volunteer firemen protected this Thayer County community from an anhydrous ammonia threat Wednesday.

The gaseous fertilizer, hazardous in large quantities, was found escaping from a railroad car parked on a Union Pacific siding. Apparently a faulty valve or gasket was releasing the ammonia.

Some two dozen volunteer firemen, as well as state patrolmen and a state fire marshal representative, were summoned to the scene. The escaping gas was hosed with water, which absorbs the noxious fumes.

Fire Chief Henry Nun said several families were alerted in the immediate area, and for a time there was thought of mass evacuation. Water neutralized most of the ammonia, however, and that which did escape was blown away from the town.

What remained of the 50,000-pound car load was being pumped into a bulk tank at midday. Several representatives of Bartlett and Co., the consignee, were called in by local manager Robert Aksamit.

The leak was discovered about 5:20 a.m. Only damage to surrounding property appeared to be to shrubbery.

Former Perkins Assessor Dies

Survivors include Hoffman's wife, Hazel, and sons, Earl Jr., of Colorado, and Wayne of Cozad.

Taxation Of Mineral Lease Sales Changed

Denver, Colo. (AP) — Royalties from mineral lease sales are ordinary income — not capital gain, the U.S. 10th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled in an opinion on file here Wednesday.

The ruling, a reversal of an earlier finding, has widespread application in the West, where oil, gas and other leases often are sold or subleased with the seller-leaser retaining royalties on production in addition to the initial transfer price.

The ruling was handed down in the second tax case brought before the court by Paul R. and Anna Lee White, Jefferson County, Colo., ranchers and onetime owners of the Schwartzwalder uranium mine near Golden, Colo.

The Whites issued a mineral deed to the mine property and retained a percentage of the production profits as royalties.

The Internal Revenue Service collected $73,600 as ordinary income taxes on the royalties for the years 1959 through 1962. The Whites sought a refund on grounds the royalties were capital gain, not ordinary income.

In reversing itself, the court held that the tax category is that of a lease, and must be interpreted in light of case law developed in the oil and gas field.

The court said the royalties, instead of being a "deferred payment" and capital gain, are a "retained economic interest" subject to treatment as ordinary income.

The effect of the latest ruling is that the Whites won't get the refund they asked, and will pay ordinary income taxes on royalties received since 1962 instead of the smaller capital gains tax.

Ravenna Youth Burned In Home Explosion, Fire

Ravenna (AP) — A 17-year-old Ravenna boy was listed in serious condition in a Kearney hospital Wednesday with burns received in a fire that destroyed the Joseph G. Muegerl farm home near here late Tuesday.

Patrick Muegerl, a senior at Ravenna High School, was injured in the blaze, which started after a propane explosion in the house.

Ravenna Physician Charles B. Carignan said the youth suffered first and second degree burns over 50% of his body.

Ravenna Fire Chief O. L. Buxton said the blaze broke out when the propane gas the injured boy was spraying to get rid of bees in an upstairs room ignited settled to the floor below and ignited on a heating stove.

Buxton said the explosion blew the house completely apart.

Less seriously injured in the explosion were Mrs. Muegerl and four of her children. All were treated for first and second degree burns but not hospitalized.

Muegerl and two other children were not at home at the time of the accident.

Buxton said the injured boy and his mother drove to a nearby farm house to summon firemen. Ravenna volunteer fire fighters fought the blaze until early Wednesday morning.

Buxton said the two-story wood frame house and its contents were considered a total loss.

Joyful Husband Offers A Dinner For Wife's Arrest

Ogallala (UPI) — A St. Louis woman was arrested for speeding by State Patrolman Earl Schenk near here Tuesday. Her husband was so delighted he offered to buy the patrolman dinner.

Schenk said the man explained he was arrested for speeding in the same area about four years ago — and his wife kept reminding him of it. In fact, when the couple left North Platte Tuesday and headed for Ogallala, the wife insisted on taking the wheel, explaining that her husband might again break the speed limit.

Platte Countians Vote To Form Rural High School

Columbus (AP) — Voters in nine rural high school districts in southern Platte County Tuesday voted 594-145 to form a Class 6 rural high school district.

Early estimates are that the new consolidated district will have a total property valuation of some $14 million.

Students in the nine districts, for the most part, have been attending high school classes in Columbus.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

For a change we agree with Hanoi. That should be some kind of record as we cannot remember having agreed with Ho Chi Minh at any time in the past. The agreement comes in Hanoi's and our assessment of what Vice President Hubert Humphrey said in his foreign policy speech this week.

Hanoi said the Vietnam part of the speech is "still the same demand for reciprocity which we reject." A great effort, it seems, has been made to make the Humphrey position parallel that of the McCarthy and Kennedy doves within his party.

That dove position was represented in the minority Democratic platform plank on Vietnam and it called for a unilateral, unconditional and immediate end to the bombing of North Vietnam. This is not what Humphrey has called for.

Humphrey said exactly this: "As president, I would be willing to stop the bombing of the north as an acceptable risk for peace because I believe it could lead to success in the negotiations and a shorter war. This would be the best protection for our troops.

"In weighing that risk — and before taking action — I would place key importance on evidence — direct or indirect, by deed or word — of communist willingness to restore the demilitarized zone between North and South Vietnam."

That brief quote from the Humphrey speech is indicative of his entire remarks on Vietnam. There are places where one is inclined to think that he would stop the bombing of the north, with no questions asked and with no guarantee of reciprocity.

There are other statements in the speech, however, where it seems that he is protecting his flank, so to speak. In these places, he tends to place conditions upon the cessation of the bombing.

Some would call the speech a vacillating one but this is a hard diagnosis. What might appear as vacillation on Vietnam may well be nothing more than a recognition of the complexity of the issue and its grave importance to the nation.

If Humphrey has vacillated on Vietnam, former vice president Richard M. Nixon has done the same thing. Nixon has promised to end the war, too, but has not detailed the means by which he would achieve this.

As Humphrey leans toward a dovish settlement, Nixon appears to lean toward a hawkish settlement. But a clear and unmistakable position has not been taken by either man.

Obviously, there are risks in either direction and it is a difficult thing for any observer to state firmly which is the best course of action for us to pursue. To take the dovish route runs the risk of endangering our troops and hurting our military position while offering encouragement to the enemy if our action is taken by the communists as a demonstration of weakness.

To take the hawkish route is to run the risk of solidifying the communist world in a renewed determination to resist the West and, in the process, face the possibility of a wider and more violent conflict than we have today.

If those, the choices open to us, are conducive to a quick and easy answer to the Vietnam conflict, we are too thick skulled to see it. When all is said and done, the American people are going to have to rely on the wisdom and understanding of the man they elect as President in November.

They are going to have to have faith that the new President will seek an honorable end to the war, knowing that this is one of the foremost aspirations of both candidates at this point.

With all this in mind, the election could well come out an even draw if Vietnam were the deciding factor.

"Right, George—The Streets Of This City Aren't Safe"

Throwing Out The Trash

It isn't likely that the House Un-American Activities Committee will come out with a very acceptable report on the recent riots in Chicago but it has won the first round in the American opinion race. It has thrown out of its meetings demonstrators of the far left who appeared in a garb and practiced a behavior clearly contemptuous of Congress.

The committee is apt to find communism in every aspect of the demonstrations at Chicago because the nature and history of the group is oriented in that direction. Already, a committee investigator has said the demonstrations paralleled the policies of Hanoi, Moscow and Peking.

Some actions in the demonstrations did so parallel communist tractics but not all actions did this. And in some broad respects a parallel with the communists is not automatic grounds for indictment. Serious and loyal Americans are among those who have questioned the validity of our position in Asia and other parts of the world today.

It is a disservice to such people to lump them in with communist agitators simply because they challenge the basic foreign policies under which we now are operating. This is the danger point in the hearings the committee is now holding — that in seeing the communist influence that might well be present in this nation, it concludes that all dissent is communist inspired.

The far out protesters at the committee hearings are disgusting but we would only serve their cause if we let them so agitate us that we turn against all freedom of dissent. Because a few abuse the freedom they have is not sufficient grounds on which to eliminate the freedom.

Auto Repair Prices Probed

It's about time.

Finally, someone is investigating the pricing practices of the auto repair business.

The Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee is looking into the situation, according to wire service reports. The investigation is focusing on the possible relation between auto repair costs and repair manuals used by mechanics. The manuals list standard labor times for repair jobs which often are accomplished in shorter periods. When a customer complains, the committee says, the mechanic just points to the book. If the book says it was a two-hour job, that's what you pay for. But what if the mechanic got the job done in 30 minutes?

You stil pay for two hours, in some cases.

"Therefore, there is little benefit to the consumer from the skill and efficiency of the better mechanic," according to the committee.

Hopefully no one will pre-judge the auto repair business. We should wait until the investigation is complete. In the meantime, however, is there any one of us who hasn't had the experience of being completely at the mercy of a mechanic (or plumber or TV repairman) speaking in his own jargon that no one can understand except another mechanic? How can one tell if he's getting a fair price?

And who hasn't had to get three bids on a repair job only to find the range on the bids fantastically broad? Perhaps there's a logical explanation. The committee should be able to get at the truth.

Greece At Critical Turn

ATHENS—The obvious choice now facing Greece's autocratic regime is whether to follow the example of Turkey's military junta earlier this decade and take the road back to parliamentary democracy or to pursue another East Mediterranean path, Nasser's, ending up neutralist and subject to Moscow's ogling.

The government of Premier Papadopoulos, a retired colonel, looks strong in the wake of the constitutional referendum. Despite many abstentions, he received solid backing and the disputatious Greeks seem momentarily a nation of yes men. Apathetic, politically fragmented and divided (even the outlawed communists are riven by factionalism), Greece was an easy subject for the government's massive propaganda.

Futhermore, the constitution has much to commend it except for a final article that voids the rest! That article postpones promises of free press, free assembly, free strikes and free political parties, until the government decides to permit them. Thus what the nation really voted for was jam tomorrow—whenever that is.

Today the junta, which fondly calls itself the Revolution, still prescribes a rigid diet. Hundreds of communists subjects are in prison or island exile. Some non-communist opponents remain locked up and certain individuals have been singled out for a specially hard time. Center and conservative politicians recently released are warned to watch their words and are followed by police.

Nevertheless there is hope that Papadopoulos, the junta's strongman, will now move toward the realtiy of democracy. In a recent conversation he told me: "We didn't make a coup d'etat to establish a regime but to make a revolution. The constitution is a first step along the road to parliamentary rule.

"The king (now an exile in Rome) will return at the latest with the proclamation of elections — or even earlier if it is considered opportune. We have what you might call Guided Democracy — parliamentary democracy with certain safety features neutralizing weaknesses of the past. There has been an increase in the freedom of the executive from legislative shackles so that the executive can move more rapidly — as is required by modern society."

But if Papadopoulos professes to favor gradual return to genuine democracy, such is not true for all 13 members of the inner Revolutionary Council of serving or retired officers; and the council remains ultimate boss. Ex-Colonel Ladas, secretary general of the Ministry of Public Security, symbolizes even if he doesn't head, a right-wing diehard faction that opposes any leniency.

He is a tough, stocky, short man with jutting chin and a wild gleam in his eyes. His extremism is humanly explained by the fact that 18 members of his family were slaughtered by communists one night during the civil war. He is lonely, bitter and fanatical.

Ladas, unlike his colleagues, has no royal pictures in his office — only the Revolution's phoenix emblem. He talks savagely against communists, against "parliamentarians" and against "professional politicians." He has threatened to kill the king if he returns. His hard line is echoed by many other officers, a new class of military elite, the sons of poor peasants, workers and petits bourgeois who resent the traditional establishment.

Obviously there is no feasible likelihood of any switch by this regime to a pro-Moscow line. Papadopoulos' internal junta opposition is from the right — but I cannot forget that when Nasser first began to dicker with Russia he had his Marxists in jail and even assured me he considered all communists "thieves."

Accepting the premier's pronouncements at face value, the question is whether he is strong enough to move back to parliamentary democracy. Nobody really knows how united the army is and the army is the only real source to power.

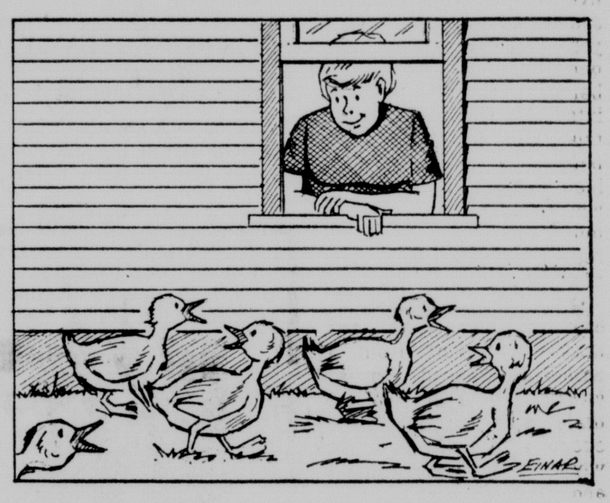
LA VERNA HASSLER

Patchwork Prairie Country

There is only the reflection of spun gold on the tip of a lonely cloud as the sun climbs higher into an azure sky. In the stillness of this morning comes the sound of wheels . . . the squeaking of press wheels on the drill as The Farmer puts the wheat into the ground for another harvest. He is working in the field behind the windbreak that bounds the farmyard on the west and north.

It is comforting to hear the hum of the tractor nearby and to know another seeding will soon be completed.

The grass looks as if liquid glass had been poured over it during the night. It sparkles in the morning sunlight and seems to magnify the green scent of the lush growth of autumn. With the rains, the pasturelands and alfalfa fields have become brilliant green again. The cool nights have spurred the brome meadows into excellent growth. The blue grass in the front lawn is stretching to a point where it will need mowing again.



How the tomatoes are growing now . . . vines sprawling in every direction as if they must hurry with their final push of growth and maturity before the frost ends their production. The Swiss chard has never looked better . . . big broad green leaves with vitamins to the very tips. I must snip the crisp leaves for dinner. It will taste good again after so many tomatoes.

Did you ever try a new recipe that sounded good in print but found it disappointing when sampled? I had been saving a recipe for a quick coffee cake, jam-filled, that looked elegant in the picture. It used a prepared biscuit mix as the base with a package of dry yeast, egg and liquid added. It took about an hour to rise, just rolled out immediately after mixing; a quick-rise procedure and bake. It was ideal for my crowded schedule yesterday.

It was ready for afternoon coffee when The Farmer came in for a snack. But alas! It tasted like nothing more than a baking powder biscuit with jam on it. I thought the addition of yeast would give it the taste of a yeast roll . . . that delicious home-baked flavor and fragrance.

I came to the conclusion that there is no short-cut to making delicious home-made yeast rolls and coffee cakes. They must be made from the basic dough from beginning to end. Needless to say, I discarded the recipe.

How the neighbor's ducks are growing. No longer do they have the high-pitched quack of a young duck. Their quack is now very low and noisy, commanding the attention they think they deserve with their new-found voices. They waddle about the yard like the busybodies they are, talking about the old swimming hole that has recently been replenished with water.

Early mornings and late evenings when they are being fed, I can hear them like a bunch of giddy school girls who can laugh at diets and enjoy their food.

PHYLLIS BATTELLE

Wife's Old Mink Into Coat For Pa

NEW YORK — There may be a curious symbolism to be found in the hot fashion trends of the upcoming season:

Women will be wearing jackets, coats and slacks made of leather — long the trademark of cowboys, mounties and teenage hoods. And men will be wearing coats made of fur — long the status item of women.

What does it all mean?

Does it mean that American women are girding themselves in the wraps of masculinity in order better to enforce law and order? Can it mean that men are becoming more egoistic, statusy and effeminate?

"Nonsense," says a fashion expert. "What it means is that the fashion books are telling women that leather is chic, and women (as always) are following a trend.

"As for men, it means that they are sick and tired of shivering while their wives cuddle up to an animal pelt. Men are at last facing the true fact that the fur coat was the original invention and design of the caveman — not a luxury item for a caveman's girl friend."

The furrier says that while the fur-for-men is an overwhelming fashion success, even this early in the year, there are still great numbers of males who are timid about it.

"The older man is embarrassed that his friends will think he is showing off. And the younger man is afraid that a fur coat is something he can't afford."

Unfortunately, there is no such thing as a "free trial, your money back if not fully satisfied" offer in the fur coat racket.

But the enterprising and thoughtful wives of America, says he has hit upon the next best thing. "In my workroom right now, I have 16 fur coats which my women customers have brought in to me with the request that I remodel them for their husbands." He smiles warmly.

"Of course, what I can do depends on the type of fur and its condition. The car coats and hunting jackets do not look right in mink — they must be made of sportier furs.

"By the way, there's an interesting side beneficial to the generous ladies," says he. "Two men came in last week, delighted at their wives' self-sacrificing gestures on their behalf. But they said they felt guilty about literally taking the coats off their ladies' backs . . . So they ordered new fur coats for their wives' Christmas presents."

Tragedies Of Subs Thresher, Scorpion Bring Pleas For Faulty Plate Detection

WASHINGTON — Confidential documents made available to this column indicate the big steel companies knowingly have delivered defective plates to shipyards for use in nuclear submarines.

Evidence of this was submitted to the Navy as early as July 16, 1961 — eight months before mysterious defects sent the nuclear sub Thresher to the bottom with a loss of all 129 hands.

The latest evidence was presented to the Navy on April 3, 1968 — two months before the Scorpion disappeared at sea with 99 men on board.

Yet the Navy, ignoring the repeated warnings, still continues to permit the steel mills to test their own submarine plates.

Hundreds of faulty plates have been detected by the Penn Galvanizing Company which was retained by Electric Boat, the nation's largest submarine builder, to make independent, ultrasonic tests of the steel plates that came from the mills.

At the April 3 meeting, Raymond Perelman, president of Penn Galvanizing, accused the steel companies of "lack of integrity." He also reminded Navy officials that his company has furnished the Navy with detailed, documentary evidence of the faulty steel work.

He told how Lukens Steel Company, for example, had shipped out plates that the company allegedly knew to be below standard. The minutes quote Perelman as charging: "These plates were found to be rejectable. The mill representative was called in to examine our findings, saw the defects in the plates in accordance with the findings of our testing department, and then made a decision to ship the plates he knew to be defective to the destination."

The naval shipyard at Mare Island, Calif., later made spot checks, found two plates that did not meet specifications and demanded "a review of the reports and causes by which the release of the non-conforming material occurred."

When Penn Galvanizing turned over its documents in the case, Perelman reported, Navy officials "stated this was a very serious situation and constituted falsifying information to a fraudulent degree."

He told of another shipment of plates to the naval shipyard at Portsmouth, N.H., for use in submarine missile tubes.

"In the forming of these tubes," charged Perelman, "scale that had not been properly removed started popping from the surface, leaving large pitted areas that were not acceptable to the specification. At a cost of $100,000, these plates had to be removed and replaced."

He stated that his company had documented 750 instances of defective plates since it started keeping records in 1962.

Perelman followed up the April 3 meeting with an earnest letter, dated May 7, 1968, to Adm. Robert B. Fulton II, commander of the naval ship engineering center.

"Since the Thresher tragedy's cause has never been determined," wrote Perelman, "all aspects of quality of material and workmanship must be considered, inasmuch as any item of material and workmanship deficiency could have been the principal cause or a contributing condition leading to the loss of the Thresher . . .

"I again state unequivocally that you have gotten defective plates in (nuclear submarines), and under the present procurement you are risking an increase in the number of defective plates that will end up in the (submarines) with the present method of inspection and because the mills are doing their own testing . . .

"I implore you, do not permit mill-tested plates to get to the yards without further testing and, thereby, help prevent what could be another Thresher tragedy."

Only 22 days later, the Scorpion was reported missing off the Azores.

Poll: Campaigns Divide Into 4 Parts

By LOUIS HARRIS

All modern presidential campaigns divide into four parts: (1) the preconvention battle for the nomination, (2) the climactic convention, (3) the postconvention backwash period and (4) the final stretch run following completion of the World Series.

In the preconvention period, Richard Nixon was the winner, as Barry Goldwater was before him, of the battle within his party but was the loser of the popularity polls. Nelson Rockefeller placed a pall over Nixon during this period and the former vice president simply could not break out as a popular winner.

Hubert Humphrey lay back in the preconvention period and in a sense let the nomination come to him from attrition. He had the muscle, was doing respectably well in the popularity polls and in Eugene McCarthy had an opponent simply unacceptable to the party professionals.

LOUIS HARRIS

Public Fluctuates

In the period following the conventions, Nixon has begun to come into his own. He has spurted into the lead in the polls, is attracting good and orderly crowds and seems to have his carefully planned campaign rolling. By contrast, Humphrey has now slipped behind in the polls, is plagued by disorder wherever he appears and somehow initially has not been able to get his campaign untracked.

Up to now, in terms of the ultimate outcome of the election, the convention period has proved to be more decisive than is usually the case in determining the ultimate winner. The public responded in quite different fashion to the two conventions.

Here is the public's reaction to the GOP convention, as measured in a series of questions put to a cross section of 1,324 voters in mid-September:

REACTION TO REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

	Agree	Dis-agree	Not Sure
Nixon's acceptance speech was one of the best in a long time.	49%	14%	37%
The Republican convention was boring.	40%	37%	23%
The GOP falsely tried to sweep their real differences under the rug.	32%	32%	36%
GOP politicians used polls too much to influence delegates.	22%	33%	45%
Miami race riots during GOP convention pointed up how little GOP has done for Negroes.	20%	53%	27%
Southern segregationists controlled the Republican convention.	12%	50%	38%

Fundamentally, the Republican convention may have been boring to many voters, but above all it avoided controversy. The potential dangers of the so-called "Nixon deal" with Sen. Strom Thurmond to obtain Southern support appear not to have taken deep hold at all. The race riots in Miami during the GOP convention were not related by voters to the political business being transacted in nearby Miami Beach.

The single outstanding impression of the Republican convention was Nixon's acceptance speech, which impressed one voter in every two as "one of the best in a long time." This performance was the keynote of his campaign, has become the basis of his television and radio thrust and parallels a comparable impression he made in 1960. After that speech he moved into a 53%-47% lead over John F. Kennedy. It took the great debates to reverse this margin back then.

The public impression of the Democratic convention was vastly different from the GOP conclave:

REACTION TO DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION

	Agree	Dis-agree	Not Sure
Were right to seat Southern Negro delegates.	73%	9%	18%
Mayor Daley was right the way he used police against the demonstrators.	66%	20%	14%
Democrats wouldn't let delegations who disagreed have say on the floor.	46%	22%	32%
Way they ran convention, Democrats proved they couldn't govern America.	34%	49%	17%
Humphrey made one of the best acceptance speeches.	32%	28%	40%
Anti-Vietnam demonstrators had protest rights taken away unlawfully.	14%	66%	20%

Clearly, at the Democratic convention, the events dominated the candidate, Hubert Humphrey. The public sided with Mayor Daley and not with the demonstrators. The credit the Democrats won for seating the Mississippi and Georgia delegations with Negroes in them was dissipated by the disorder, thought by 34% to prove they therefore "couldn't govern America."

Above all, Vice President Humphrey was not the focal point of the convention. Events seemed to buffet him. In sharp contrast, the Republican convention elevated Richard Nixon and submerged GOP problems.

In the backwash period since the conventions, Nixon has continued to hold onto his lead and has proved capable of weaving events and issues to suit his campaign strategy. Humphrey still is beset by his convention trouble of being discombobulated by events beyond his control—Vietnam, disorder and differences over President Johnson.

But there are still four weeks to go, and in this strangest year of politics the past is not a solid guide to the future. The fourth act in the drama is yet to come and the full public reaction to what "President Nixon" would be like is just settling in, and in 1968, both the public and events have consistently been cruel to front-runners.

Candidates Woo American Voters With Coffee Cup

New York (UPI) — The coffee cup is being used as a political weapon in the current election campaign by an organization of youthful Republicans.

Teen Age Republicans, with membership of about 100,000, has embarked on a nationwide coffee program to win friends and influence votes.

"Our young people have something to say about what goes on and we're determined to be heard."

LIFE BEGINS AT FORTY:

Retirees Ask Advice On Investing Savings

By ROBERT PETERSON

Q. — "We've retired and bought a new car and mobile home for $6,000. We plan to travel and live in different parts of the country. Our total income from Social Security and pensions totals $4,500. Our nest egg consists of the $28,000 we got when we sold our home. How should we invest this for maximum income and security?"

A. — If you're not concerned about leaving an estate, you should buy an annuity with this sum which will terminate on your deaths but which will pay you seven or eight per cent dividends as long as you live. If you want to leave something to your heirs, your best bet is to put your bundle into insured savings banks offering five per cent interest. You might also talk with a broker about putting part of it into good income-producing stocks which may give you as much as six per cent return, plus the possibility of some growth.

Q. — "I'm a widow, 62, own my own home, and make my living from a small dress shop. I'm so lonely I could die, but no male seems interested except a shoe salesman, 58, who drops by twice a month and recently asked me to marry him. He is kind and generous and I think he'd make a good husband except that he says he hasn't saved a nickel and believes in living for today and letting tomorrow take care of itself. Should I marry him?"

A. — This isn't a lonely hearts column. But common sense suggests that unless a woman is prepared to support two people she shouldn't get matrimonially involved with a man who hasn't saved a nickel in 58 years. Counteract your loneliness by joining clubs and getting involved in civic and social activity. Everyone is a bit lonely occasionally so don't worry about it. It's better to be a little lonely and enjoy a sense of financial security, than permanently hitched to someone who spends money as fast as he makes it.

Q.—"Every time I go past an old folks home I get shivers wondering if that's my destiny. What are my chances of staying out of one?"

A.—Very good. Less than three per cent of all elders live in old folks homes or institutions for the aged. The rest live in private dwellings or with members of their families. Most physicians nowadays encourage elders to stay in their own homes and apartments as long as they can care for themselves.

Passenger Trains Showed Profit 1954-1966, ICC Says; Railroad Group Scoffs

Washington (AP) — Passenger trains — money losers according to the railroad companies—actually showed a profit during 1954-1966, the Interstate Commerce Commission reported.

The Association of American Railroads dismissed the ICC figures as misleading, and criticized the Commission's tabulation in sharp terms.

The ICC, which since 1958 has permitted the withdrawal of nearly 500 passenger trains from service because of revenue reverses, appeared to do an about-face. It provided statistics to show that between 1954 and 1966 passenger trains, by and large, made money.

Not So, Says AAR

This is contrary to American Association of Railroad figures which show losses on passenger service since World War II averaged more than $525 million a year.

The ICC, however, claims passenger trains actually made money for eight consecutive years — from 1959 to 1966 — and despite losses for the previous five consecutive years ended up with an aggregate net operating profit of $35 million for the period.

To this, the AAR retorted, "This must be some kind of new math."

What apparently has happened is that the ICC, whose figures appear in a monthly publication titled "Transport Economics," uses a different system of computing profits and losses than do the railroad companies.

The association claims the ICC system, relying on "solely related costs," omits big and legitimate expense items such as taxes and rent. The railroad group says this is like "trying to run the family budget without including the mortgage payments and the grocery bill, or assessing the cost of driving a car dpending solely on the price of gasoline."

The railroads use the "fully allocated cost" system, which includes all expenses from the company president's salary to the cost of replacing tracks and ties and coffee cups.

Just how far the two tabulations are apart can be seen from these comparisons: In 1966 the railroads reported a $400 million loss in passenger business. The same year, according to the ICC, there was a passenger train net profit of $26 million.

One inescapable fact is that passenger trains have been slowly diminishing. Revenues of many runs dropped when the Post Office Department began the wholesale removal of railway post office cars last year.

Artist Marcel Duchamp, 81, Father Of Pop Idea, Dies

© New York Times Service

Paris — Marcel Duchamp, the artist, died Wednesday night at the age of 81 in his studio in the Paris suburb of Neuilly. The painter and craftsman collapsed suddenly just after having had dinner with his wife and some friends.

A naturalized American citizen, Duchamp was born in Rouen, Normandy, in 1887.

Like the smile of the Mona Lisa, which he retouched with moustache and goatee, Marcel Duchamp remained an enigma.

Career Abandoned

Thrust into the international limelight by the 1913 Armory Show, he abandoned his career only a decade later, at the age of 36.

Yet in half a century the enfant terrible who had thumbed his nose at the pantheon of art grew up to become the spiritual father of the pop generation — and Marcel Duchamp the artist had blossomed into Marcel Duchamp the idea.

At the center of public ridicule, heaped primarily on the Cubist section of the 1913 Armory Show, Duchamp's "Nude Descending a Staircase" stood as the symbol of the insanity to which Modern Art had progressed.

Title Outrage

It was neither the nude nor the staircase, apparently, that had outraged so many art lovers at America's first exposure to Europe's new, nonrepresentational painting in the 69th Regiment Armory, but the title, painted onto the canvas, which seemed to have little to do with either — and the idea of a nude descending instead of traditionally reclining or standing. Critics called it an "explosion in a shingle factory."

Duchamp carefully explained the painting:

"It is an organization of kinetic elements, an expression of time and space through the abstract presentation of motion."

Geometry Realm

"A painting is, of necessity, a juxtaposition of two or more colors on a surface. I purposely restricted the 'nude' to wood coloring so that the question of painting per se might not be raised."

In trying to consider the notion of form through space, in a given time, he said it was necessary "to enter the realm of geometry and mathematics."

'Now if I show the ascent of an airplane, I try to show what it does," he continued. "I do not make a still-life picture of it. When the vision of the 'nude' flashed upon me, I knew that it would break forever the enslaving chains of Naturalism."

The picture, which hangs in the Arensberg Collection of the Philadelphia Museum of Art, is now valued at more than $250,000.

Three Youths Linked With 'Crime Wave'

Three Lincoln area youths, picked up this week by city police officers, have been linked with a number of burglaries and break-ins over a period of "about a year," police said Wednesday.

The trio, two 15-year-old boys and one 13-year-old girl, were turned over to county juvenile authorities Wednesday.

One of the boys and the girl are from Walton, police said. The other boy is from Lincoln.

Police said the youths used bicycles to travel between Walton and Lincoln.

The three were arrested as they broke into a service station in southeast Lincoln Tuesday night, police said. Later the youths admitted involvement in the other break-ins, officers said.

Total losses in the break-ins would be around $500 "at the least," one police officer speculated.

Man Sought In Stabbing

Police are searching for the man who stabbed a young Lincoln woman early Wednesday morning near 26th and O Sts., police officials said.

The woman, Mrs. Kathy Hoerner, 21, of 3364 So. 44th, was treated at a local hospital and released.

Police officials said her wounds were not serious.

Mrs. Hoerner told police she was leaving a local chuch when a man in his 20s asked her for a ride downtown, officers said. She refused.

Police said the man chased her for about half a block and stabbed her several times with a small knife.

The man fled when Mrs. Hoerner screamed, officers reported.

Cater Resigns As Johnson Aide

Washington (UPI) — President Johnson Wednesday accepted the resignation of Douglass Cater, 45, a special White House assistant who quit to join Vice President Hubert Humphrey's campaign.

Cater, former national affairs editor of the Reporter Magazine, sent to the White House in 1964 as a speechwriter and expert on health, education and welfare programs.

Appreciation Day Set

Franklin — Appreciation Day, sponsored by local merchants, will be held here Saturday.

A free bean bake by the merchants will begin at 5:30 at the Fireman's Hall. Rides for the children and a drawing will also highlight the day.

Rules On Election Returns Clarified

The state attorney general's office has held that election returns may not be disclosed until an hour after the polls close in Nebraska's eastern time zone.

Furthermore, partial election returns may not be revealed until the precinct summary of votes cast has been delivered to the county clerk or election commissioner unless those officials specify otherwise.

In an opinion prepared for Lancaster County Election Commissioner Dean Petersen, the attorney general held that the results may not be reported before 9 p.m. Central Standard Time and 8 p.m. Mountain Standard Time.

The closing hour for polls is 8 p.m. in both time zones.

The opinion refers to the Nebraska statute that reads: "In general and primary elections, there shall be no public disclosure of the returns until all precinct polling places in the state are closed."

The opinion did not mention whether the statute covers local or special elections.

47 Priests Call Cardinal 'Unjust'

Washington (UPI) — Washington's dissident priests Wednesday accused Cardinal Patrick O'Boyle of "arbitrary, unjust and scandalous misuse of authority" in penalizing those who disagree with Pope Paul's encyclical banning birth control.

The Rev. John E. Corrigan, outspoken leader of the priests, said more Washington priests were joining their cause. He strongly suggested that the 72-year-old cardinal should retire.

"This might bring peace to the Archdiocese of Washington," the Rev. Mr. Corrigan told a news conference at the Statler-Hilton Hotel.

The Rev. Mr. Corrigan told newsmen he would release Thursday the names of more priests who "have endorsed our original statement of conscience."

So far, 47 Washington priests have publicly signed a statement saying: "Spouses may responsibly decide according to their conscience that artificial contraception in some circumstances is permissible and indeed necessary to preserve and foster the values and sacredness of marriage."

The Rev. Mr. Corrigan read a statement which said the stand of the dissenting priests "has now been vindicated by a succession of statements from conferences of bishops of other lands which use almost identical language" in upholding the use of artificial birth control in some cases.

First Power District Board Petition Filed

State Water Resources Director Dan Jones has approved the first petition for spreading representation of public power district boards as required by 1967 legislation.

Jones approved the application of the Seward County Public Power District, making four of the five directors elective from subdivision with substantially equal population and the fifth at large.

All five previously were elected at-large.

Applications pending are from Cuming County, Cornhusker and Loup River Public Power Districts.

Sen. Harold Stryker of Rising City has filed a complaint charging that Loup and Platte Valley Public Power and Irrigation District have yet to comply wit the law.

WRC Elects Vera Duncan At State Meet

Vera Duncan of Nebraska City Wednesday was elected district president of the Womans Relief Corps at the group's annual district convention here.

Mrs. Duncan, formerly junior vice president of the group, succeeds Christine Schneider of Lincoln.

More than 20 representatives from Fairbury, Nebraska City, Omaha and Lincoln attended the one-day convention here Wednesday.

Other officers include Marie Koste, senior vice president; Stella Francess, junior vice president; Sadie Folk, treasurer; Hanna Jones, chaplain; Susie Sanders, guard, and Margaret Johnson, conductor.

Defer Action On Kearney Dorm Plans

The Legislative Council Executive Board Wednesday deferred action on a request by Kearney State College to use $880,000 in surplus funds to build a dormitory.

College President Dr. Milton J. Hassel appeared before the board and reported the dorm would house 200 students and be constructed on a 30-acre tract south of Highway 30 which the school owns.

He told the board the school has $950,000 in surplus funds and was appearing to get legislative blessing for the project.

The board indicated, however, it wants more information on the project, an official or unofficial opinion from the attorney general's office and a session with at least Legislative Budget Chairman Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings.

Major Union Plans Strike In England

Blackpool, England (AP) — Rejecting Labor government curbs on wage increases, the head of Britain's metalworkers' union declared Wednesday night that the union would go through with a strike that "will bring the economic life of this country to a standsiill."

Hugh Scanlon, general secretary of the Amalgamated Engineering and Foundrymen's Union, told a rally of leftist Laborites outside the party's annual convention that the strike would begin Oct. 21. He said responsibility for the strike would lie with the government because of its "adamant stand" against raises of more than 3.5% in any 12-month period.

The union, representing 3.5 million workers in the aircraft, automotive, shipbuilding and other heavy industries, demands wage increases of 6.5%.

Earlier, former foreign secretary George Brown called on convention delegates to begin a "great debate" on Laborite ideals and objectives for the 1970s. He said the party, which has suffered reverses at the polls in recent months, should try to win support of "new forces of change" in Britain.

Technology Minister Anthony Wedgwood Benn defined the problem: "People are losing confidence. They are cynical, they are disillusioned, they are apathetic."

"We have to re-establish contact with the new forces of change, including the young, to channel their energy from protest into constructive political effort," he said.

Left-wing delegates retorted that the reason people are cynical and disillusioned is because Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government has "turned its back on Socialist principles." They appealed to the party to turn to the left.

Brown, whose freewheeling activity in the past has frequently landed him in hot water, presented to the convention the party's "mid-term manifesto."

Lawyer Named Quebec Premier

Quebec (AP) — Justice Minister Jean-Jacques Bertrand, 52, a reform-minded laywer, was chosen by the dominant Union Nationale Party Wednesday to become Quebec province's new premier.

Bertrand succeeds Premier Daniel Johnson, who died last Thursday. He had served for much of his 20-year legislative assembly career as Johnson's No. 1 lieutenant.

U.S. Viet Troops Show Little Voter Enthusiasm

© New York Times Service

By GENE ROBERTS

Saigon — A transistor radio blared the latest campaign news from the United States, but the American squad standing guard atop a fish net factory on the outskirts of Saigon listened with only half an ear.

"Same old bull," murmured one soldier who crouched under a length of tent canvas to avoid the afternoon heat.

The radio droned on, and the soldiers showed real interest only when the newscast ended and a hillbilly singer began whining, "She's leaving me standing in the rain."

Mood Of U.S.

The scene seemed to capture the mood of U.S. troops in South Vietnam. There is little evidence of enthusiasm for the election among the troops and when political arguments break out, they appear to spring from boredom or tension rather than from passion over the war or any other issue.

For all the lack of enthusiasm, however, random samplings of opinion in infantry units indicates that Richard Nixon is leading Hubert Humphrey by a substantial margin and that George Wallace is a factor here just as he is in opinion surveys in the U.S.

The only supporters Vice President Humphrey had in the squad on the rooftop, for example, were its two Negro members. Two other squad members did not have a choice in the election, and doubted that they would reach one. The six other squad members were for Nixon.

Race Issue

A mile away, in a cluster of rice paddies, one white and one Negro member of a nine-man infantry patrol were for Humphrey. Two white members were for Wallace. Four were for Nixon and one said, "I don't think much of any of them."

The story was much the same at a bridge where five soldiers were building a bunker. Two were for Nixon. Humphrey and Wallace each had a supporter and the fifth man said he was "disgusted" with all of the candidates.

Surprisingly, the war issue had little to do with which candidates the soliders were supporting. Humphrey's supporters among the Negroes and Wallace's among the whites were basing their support almost solely upon the race issue. And many of Nixon's supporters had decided upon him simply by eliminating the other two candidates.

"Wallace wouldn't be any good for the country and Humphrey is making a lot of promises he won't be able to keep," Sgt. Robert Humphrey of Knoxville, Tenn., said atop the fish net factory.

Nixon Hits 'Complacency' In Face Of Soviet Naval Buildup

© New York Times Service

Norfolk, Va. —Richard M. Nixon accused the Johnson administration Wednesday of complacency in the face of a Soviet naval buildup that he said threatened American superiority on the seas.

He charged that the Defense Department had defaulted on what he called former President Eisenhower's commitment to a nuclear-powered Navy.

He condemned the decision to equip the newest aircraft carrier John F. Kennedy with conventional rather than nuclear power.

He denounced the administration's decision last summer to remove 50 ships and 100 naval aircraft from active service.

'Most Important'

He charged that the administration had withheld authority to proceed with "the super-quiet attack submarine, the one the Navy's planners and Adm. Rickover contend is the most important."

And finally, he said, the Soviet Union has built a merchant fleet that threatens to surpass that of the U.S. in the early 1970s.

Speaking at a Republican rally in a city that contains the most important naval base in the U.S. and is the headquarters of the Atlantic Fleet, Nixon chided "euphoric planners" in the Defense Department.

Without mentioning by name former defense secretary Robert S. McNamara and his successor, Clark Clifford, Nixon said the "new civilian leaders of the Defense Department decided we could take a breather from the brisk Esienhower pace."

'Abrupt Default'

"There was," he charged, "an open discounting of the Soviet naval threat. The strategic advantages gained in the 1950s began to melt away. There was an abrupt default on the Eisenhower commitment to a nuclear-powered Navy."

He said the decision to install conventional power on the carrier John F. Kennedy was made over vigorous protests from Congress and the Navy.

"Now the carrier has been launched," he said, "and most naval authorities around the world describe that decision as an irretrievable and major mistake.

"Just last week the authoritative London publication, Jane's Fighting Ships, again mourned the error."

He noted that Congress "finally forced the euphoric defense palnners to change their plans." But, he said, "Congress could not stop the departmental dragging of feet."

Nixon said that two-thirds of the Navy's ships were of World War II vintage.

The Soviet fishing fleet is already the world's largest and most modern, he said, and Russia has taken the lead in oceanographic research.

He pledged that a Nixon administration would "restore the goal of a Navy second to none."

Salazar Condition Said Unchanged

Lisbon (UPI) — The condition of Antonio Salazar of Portugal remained unchanged Wednesday.

A medical bulletin said the 79-year-old former premier had spent a quiet night and the only alteration in his condition was a slight lowering of blood pressure.

Salazar suffered a brain stroke Sept. 16.

Air Guardsmen To Be Released

Washington (AP) — The Pentagon has decided to return to civilian life some 16,000 Air National Guardsmen and reservists called up after North Korea's capture of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo and the enemy Tet offensive in Vietnam.

Sources said Wednesday the Air Guardsmen and reservists will be released starting in these last three months of 1968, with the last removed from active federal service by next June 30.

The phased release is designed to give the regular Air Force time to fill the slots out of its regular establishment.

Announcement of the move, under study for some six weeks, may be made Thursday.

Sources said that six Air National Guard squadrons will finish their normal overseas tours before being released.

These include four fighter squadrons in South Vietnam and two in South Korea.

The Vietnam squadrons, which arrived in the war zone in May and June, already have flown more than 6,000 combat missions inside South Vietnam.

The normal combat tour in Vietnam is 12 months.

The two fighter squadrons in South Korea were deployed there in late June and July. A usual duty tour in Korea lasts 13 months.

One of the nearly 1,700 Air Guardsmen in South Vietnam is Airman 1C. Patrick J. Nugent, son-in-law of President Johnson.

Gold Setback Is Good News

© New York Times Service

London — The price of gold suffered a sharp setback on the London bullion market Wednesday, thereby improving the prospects for world monetary stability.

At the same time, the British treasury reported a cheering $50.4 million gain in gold and currency reserves during September.

The pound enjoyed a smart rise to its best level since Aug. 20, rounding out one of the brighter financial days.

Steepest Since March

London's five bullion dealers, at their morning meeting to "fix" the price, set gold at $38.30 an ounce. This was a startling drop of $1.15 from Tuesday and the steepest slide since last March when Western central banks cut the gold price free by refusing to supply any more bullion to hold the line at $35.

At the afternoon fixing, the price recovered to $38.90 but, as one dealer put it, "there was a fair amount of selling and you had to look hard to find a buyer."

The price has now dropped $1.55 an ounce since the recent price peak of $40.45 Sept. 26.

Reaction To Speech

Dealers attributed Wednesday's decline to a continued reaction to the Sept. 24 speech by U.S. Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler, who opposed the European idea that the $35 price for monetary gold held in central banks' reserves should be the floor for the free market price.

Fowler has apparently frightened investors and speculators who had bought gold at $35 an ounce and more in the fear or expectation — that the gold price would be doubled. Such an increase would devalue the dollar and invite monetary chaos.

The U.S. strategy for keeping the free market price as close as possible to the official price includes efforts to force newly mined South African gold, the bulk of Western supplies, onto the free market in hope of breaking the price.

Housing Authority Seeks Expanded Rent Program

The Lincoln Housing Authority has approved amendments to its application for an expanded rent supplement program that calls for a total of 1,100 rental units to be under contract to the authority in the near future.

The initial contract of 600 units has been filled and the authority has applied for permission to contract for 500 additional private dwelling units.

It also asks that the federal Housing Assistance Administration (HAA) contribution to the program be increased to $1,025,000, compared to the $513,000 the housing authority now receives.

HAA is a division of the department of Housing and Urban Development.

The federal contribution makes up the difference between the contract rental price and what the tenant is able to pay.

Herbert O. Hamilton, the authority's director of leased housing, said he hopes the expanded program can "be expedited within 30 days."

The application for the additional 500 units was filed Aug. 9.

Housing authority officials said they foresee need in the future for more than 1,100 units in the program.

Russia Steadily Building Up Mediterranean Naval Force

By BASIL GINGELL
London Times Dispatch

London — The steady buildup of naval forces by the Soviet Union in the Mediterranean has brought more than 44 warships into an area between Malta and the eastern shore.

The number is the largest the Russian navy has ever deployed in these waters since she began using the Mediterranean regularly for naval operations four years ago.

Ten Russian submarines operate in the area between Malta and the Sicilian narrows, and a second submarine depot ship has recently been brought through from the Black Sea to support one already on station to maintain the increasing underwater fleet. Many of the Soviet submarines now carry guided missiles.

The most advanced of the Russian ships now operating in the Mediterranean is the helicopter carrier Moskva (15,000 tons) which was commissioned last year and can carry 30 helicopters or operate vertical-takeoff-and-landing aircraft. In company with two escort destroyers, the Moskva entered the Mediterranean from the Black Sea Sept. 20.

The use to which the ship may be put in the Mediterranean has been the subject of a deal of conjecture in naval circles, but one possibility is given muth credence.

It is that she would be an ideal vessel for recovering spaceship capsules. As Russia has devoted an increasing amount of thought and money to the space program, it is considered not unlikely that she would assign a ship to recovery.

The Moskva, however, is also equipped with a powerful array of guided missiles, with the launchers on the forecastle.

Other ships which the Soviet Union has in the Mediterranean include one cruiser, 10 destroyers, three landing ships, two intelligence vessels and 15 auxiliaries.

How impressively the strength has changed from the earlier Russian operations can be judged from the fact that from mid-1966 to the spring of 1967 the squadron averaged one cruiser or submarine depot ship, three destroyers, four submarines and five auxiliaries.

The numbers increased at the time of the Arab-Israeli war, but even so did not match the present buildup.

The principal function of the squadron is regarded as a counter to the U.S. 6th Fleet and to provide surveillance of Western maritime units.

One surface-to-air guided missile destroyer and one armed with surface-to-surface missiles are more or less permanently attached to shadowing the aircraft carriers of the 6th Fleet whenever they enter the area.

Indications are that instead of the numbers of Russian ships diminishing this winter, as has been the practice in previous years, there is likely to be a maintaining of the present strength and perhaps some increase.

Planned March To City Hall Wins Approval Of NU Student Senate

A demonstration against discriminatory housing was approved by the Associated Students of the University of Nebraska (ASUN) Wednesday in the form of a resolution.

The demonstrators plan to march to City Hall Thursday afternoon to "dramatize the injustice of discrimination in Lincoln and to show student support for a city ordinance on open housing," the Student Senate resolution stated.

The demontration will follow a "Hyde Park" discussion forum which begins at 3:30 p.m.

Clergymen will address the group at the university and at City Hall. The demonstration will serve as the "kickoff" for a drive to boycott landowners practicing discrimination in business transactions.

"There is a considerable amount of racism in Lincoln that is exemplified by overt discrimination in housing," the resolution said. The resolution also stated specifically that the student senate would support a city open housing ordinance.

"Federal housing laws are somewhat difficult to implement, so local ordinances are necessary," ASUN Human Rights Committee Chairman Dan Looker said.

In other business, the student senate adopted a resolution urging the implementation of new rules concerning off-campus living.

A policy outlined by university administrators was to begin this fall but has yet to be put into practice, the students noted.

The student leaders said since university dormitories are nearly full, the University Housing Policy Committee should implement the policy by the start of the second semester of the current school year.

Senate OKs Education Bill

Washington (UPI) — The Senate passed a compromise vocational education bill Wednesday despite hearing that it had been fooled earlier by a "little sneaker" clause exempting $3.7 billion in education money from spending controls.

"We can't read every bill that comes through here," said Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del. He complained that when the Senate first passed the bill three months ago its sponsors failed to call attention to the exemption clause.

Despite Williams' speech, the Senate voted 58 to 11 to pass the bill, a compromise between versions approved earlier by the Senate and House. It still faces a fight in the House.

The legislation would authorize $3.1 billion over four years for an expanded program of vocational education. It would authorize grants to states for vocational education programs and for research and training.

Hussein 'Comfortable'

London (UPI) — King Hussein of Jordan was reported "very comfortable" following surgery for sinus trouble in a London nursing home. A spokesman for the Fitzroy Nuffield Nursing Home said it was not determined when the Jordanian monarch would leave the hospital.

Marijuana Shipments Seized In Two Hauls

Cranbury, N.J. (UPI) — State police seized 400 pounds of marijuana from a car on the New Jersey Turnpike late Wednesday hours after authoritiees confiscated 664 pounds of the drug from an auto driving through the Lincoln Tunnel into New Yrok City.

A state police detective said the hauls, two of the largest in the New Jersey-New York area, were probably part of a marijuana caravan moving across the country.

Narcotics detectives seized the 664 pounds of marijuana, said to be worth about $1.5 million, as the car entered New York via the tunnel from New Jersey. Authorities said the find climaxed a lengthy investigation.

A state trooper discovered the 400-pound shipment in a car he stopped in Cranbury because it was traveling only 35 miles an hour on the 60 m.p.h. turnpike. Cranbury is about 40 miles south of New York City.

Arrested was Oscar Jose Perez, 25, of Miami, Fla. Detectives said he had $50 worth a sample for prospective buyers and a .22 caliber automatic pistol.

Police in New York said the Lincoln Tunnel shipment was second in size only to a 1,000-pound load found several years earlier.

Arrested in New York were Orlando Sanchez, 22, of Huntington Park, Calif., and Herebito Moreira, 41, of Los Angeles, both of Cuban extraction. They were not armed and offered no resistance to the five-man narcotics squad which stopped them.

British Sextuplets Born On Mom's 30th Birthday

© New York Times Service

London — Six babies were born alive in Birmingham Wednesday morning to a 30-year-old childless woman who had taken a fertility drug, gonadotrophen.

One of the babies, a girl, died shortly after birth. The surviving five were described by the pediatrician in charge as "extremely frail but fairly satisfactory." He estimated the chances of survival as 50-50.

The four girls and two boys were delivered two months prematurely by Caesarean operation. The weights ranged from 2 to 3 pounds.

The birth of sextuplets was a first for Britain. However, sextuplets, septuplets and even octuplets — in Mexico in 1967 — are occasionally reported elsewhere. It is rare in such births for all the babies to be born alive. The chance of having sextuplets has been calculated at 1 in 3,272,800,000, or once in every generation at the present size of the world's population.

The mother of Britain's sextuplets is Mrs. Sheila Ann Thorns of Birmingham, who turned 30 Wednesday. Her husband, Norman Thorns, 33, is a draftsman. They have been married 10 years and have had no other children.

Dr. Arthur Carlton Crooke, a leading British endocrinologist, said Mrs. Thorns had taken a course of the fertility drug, gonadotrophen, for about three months after having tried the drug Clomiphene without success.

He said what had obviously happened with Mrs. Thorns was that six ova had been liberated as a result of the treatment. In multiple births in women who have taken fertility drugs, the babies seem to come from separate egg cells, unlike identical twins who come from one egg cell which has split to produce two babies.

Ted's Wife Campaigns For Indiana Senator

Fort Wayne, Ind. (AP) —A yellow mini-skirted Joan Kennedy blitzed five of Indiana's largest cities Wednesday on behalf of a family friend who may be in political trouble, Democratic Sen. Birch Bayh.

The wife of Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy told Democratic women and high school and college students at Gary, Hammond, South Bend and Fort Wayne that "my Ted sent me to ask you to send Birch Bayh back to the Senate."

Mrs. Kennedy, asked at a Hammond news conference if she would campaign for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the presidency, said, "I haven't been asked," but indicated she would if Humphrey requested her help.

A Humphrey aide at Miami, Fla., said Mrs. Kennedy's offer was welcome and that Humphrey would be in touch with her.

Mrs. Kennedy appeared on platforms with Sen. Bayh's wife, Marvella.

She told audiences in a low, clear voice with no oratorical flourishes that she felt Bayh had saved her husband's life by pulling him from a light plane that crashed while both were en route to the Massachusetts Democratic Convention in 1964. The pilot and Kennedy's administrative assistant were killed in the crash and Kennedy suffered a broken back.

Humphrey Plans To Use 'Blowtorch' On Nixon

Jacksonville, Fla. (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey, who came South to hit George Wallace where he lives, took out instead after Richard Nixon Wednesday by saying: "Before I get through with him he'll have a blowtorch on his political tail like he never had before."

Humphrey flew from Knoxville, Tenn.

The vice president said he was in an uphill fight against the Republican nominee who, he said, was running a cool and composed campaign.

Humphrey said his own effort to become president was short of money and late starting because of the Democratic Party convention.

At a downtown corner Humphrey warned against extremism of the right and left as he turned his attack to Wallace.

Another Danger

He warned against extremists "who chant and disrupt meetings" and the vice president added: "There is another form of radical extremism — just as dangerous, just as corrosive to our liberties — the extremism of those who preach disrespect for our courts, disrespect for our laws, who play to the basest fears and deepest suspicions of our people."

Humphrey urged the crowd to "mark my words carefully — this strategy of organized hate, if left unanswered and unchecked, can lead America to disaster, just as surely as the radical tactics of the shouters and the disrupters can destroy our democracy."

On the way into Jacksonville, Humphrey stopped the motorcade in the middle of a highway and led his party across the grass to a schoolhouse where a couple of hundred Negro children lined the fence and poured out of the school to meet him.

Negro Turnout

Humphrey, according to his advisers, will need a big Negro turnout in the South and he told the children, "You tell all your mommas and daddies to register."

There were a few supporters of Wallace to the right of the speaker's platform and a minor scuffle developed between one of them and a Humphrey enthusiast.

When the vice president pulled away from the speaker's stand, several hundred of the crowd walked and ran along with him, following his car for a short distance.

Economic Gains

From Jacksonville Humphrey charted his campaign to North Carolina.

In Charlotte, as in Jacksonville earlier, Humphrey touted what he called the economic gains of the individuals and the communities under Democratic rule.

Humphrey also stressed his own record on law and order — one of Wallace's chief issues in his third party campaign. As mayor of Minneapolis, said Humphrey, "I cleaned up a police department. I fought organized crime and street violence and I brought law and order to Minneapolis. As mayor of Minneapolis I compiled a record that received commendation from the FBI."

ANXIOUS SUPPORTER . . . rushes to shake Humphrey's hand.

Soviet Planner Backs Firing Of Surplus Workers

© New York Times Service

Moscow — The Soviet economic planning chief, Deputy Premier Nikolai K. Baibakov, has endorsed a potentially controversial plan to encourage dismissal of surplus workers by allowing managers to make use of resulting wage savings to increase the pay of remaining employes.

The plan, now being tested in a chemical plant near Tula, raises sensitive questions in a society that shuns unemployment.

Measures to eliminate widely prevalent overstaffing and inefficient use of workers are urgently needed, Baibakov explained, because labor reserves are diminishing as the economy continues to expand. The solution, he said, is to encourage fewer employes to do more work.

Baibakov discussed the worker-dismissal plan in a published review of the country's profit-oriented economic reform, adopted three years ago last month. The reform reduces cumbersome central controls over economic operations and seeks to stimulate productivity and efficiency by rewarding workers and managers with shares from the profits.

The reform has proved its value in coping with the complexities of a modern economy, the planning chief said, but he sharply criticized shortcomings in its implementation.

The reform system now embraces more than 25,000 industrial enterprises accounting for 70% of the country's total output, Baibakov reported.

Anti-English Agitations

Benares, India (AP) — The All-India Angrezi Hatao-Remove English-organization has resolved to observe the centenary of Mohandas K. Gandhi's birth with anti-English agitations. It urged people to remove English signboards, shop nameplates and office typewriters and make bonfires of English-language newspapers.

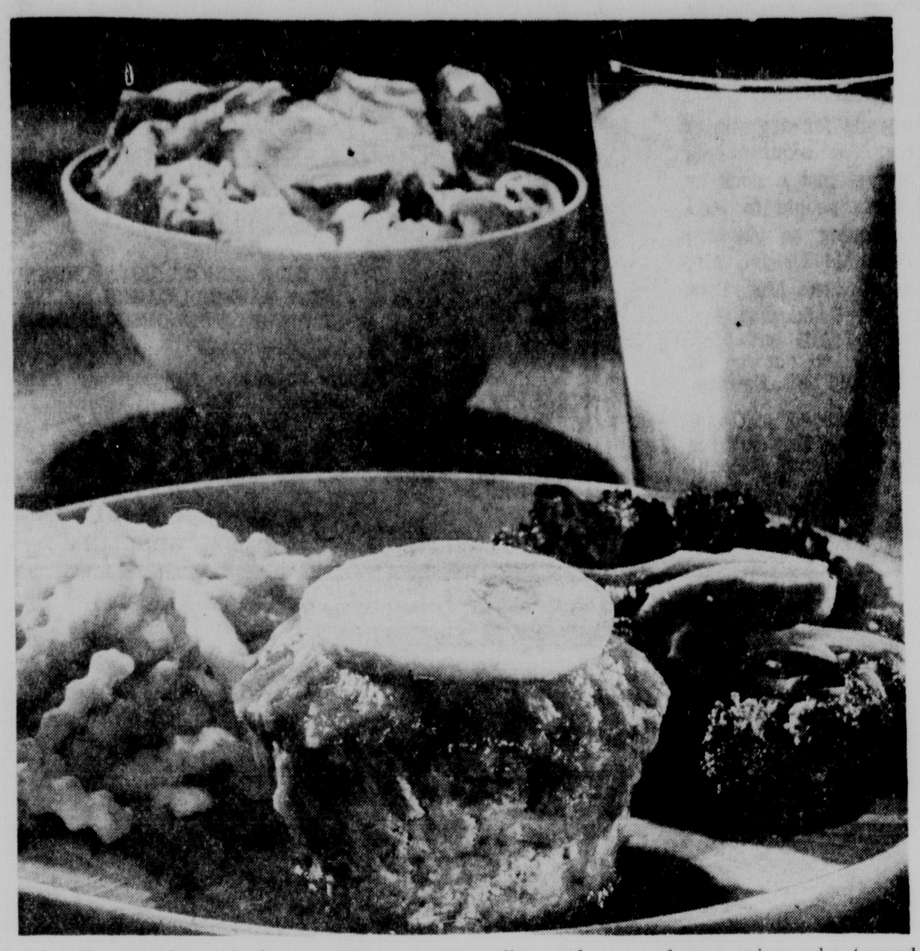
FOOD

for those in-a-hurry days



As the number of days grows shorter and shorter until the rush of the holiday season is here, you're more and more on the lookout for really quick, yet satisfying supper main dishes.

Orange Mini-Loaves not only cook quickly but are amazingly fast to prepare. The use of packaged and canned foods completely eliminates any chopping, and you'll need only one mixing bowl. The ingredient list is short, too, although the lilliputian loaves are long on flavor.

Use raisin bran flakes instead of bread or cracker crumbs to extend the ground beef. You'll really like the pleasantly interesting flavor difference. The raisins in the cereal impart a subtle fruity sweetness.

Tomato sauce with cheese gives you the advantage of several Italian herbs and spices as well as mellow aged Romano cheese all mixed into the rich, natural tomato goodness of tomato sauce.

Bake the loaves in custard cups. Just before serving top with an orange slice and a bit of brown sugar. Broil just long enough for the sugar to melt and glaze the oranges.

Complete your rapid-fire dinner with frozen broccoli spears and French fries. Toss a green salad. Take dessert from the freezer, too — frozen spice cake topped with canned applesauce.

ORANGE MINI-LOAVES

- 1½ pounds ground beef
- 1 cup raisin bran flakes or cornflakes
- 1 egg
- 1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce with cheese
- 2 teaspoons instant minced onion
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 medium orange
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar

Combine beef, cereal, egg, ¼ cup tomato sauce with cheese, onion and salt. Divide equally among six 6-ounce custard cups, packing firmly. Place on baking sheet; bake at 350 for 30 minutes. Meanwhile, cut ends off orange and discard; cut remainder into 6 slices. At end of cooking pour liquid off meat loaves. Pour on remaining tomato sauce with cheese. Top with orange slices; sprinkle oranges with brown sugar. Place under broiler about 3 to 5 minutes or until oranges are glazed. Carefully remove from cups with fork; pour over sauce from cups. Makes 6 servings.

They're New

Two luscious additions have joined the line-up of fresh refrigerated fruit products. The newcomers are juicy Valencia orange sections, and sliced peaches. Both products will be found in your grocer's dairy case and-or produce section.

The fresh-chilled Valencia orange sections are packed in 16 and 32-ounce hermetically sealed jars.

The fresh-chilled sliced peaches are also hermetically sealed in 16 and 32-ounce jars. They, too, offer all the flavor and taste appeal of fresh-from-the-tree fruit and they eliminate the guesswork often involved in selecting fresh whole peaches.

Take The Easy Way

Take a tasty shortcut to a main dish for tonight and try a quick cooking entree, Roast Beef Shorties.

Its basis is a convenience food, canned roast beef with gravy, that is ready to heat straight from the can. The tender meat is trimmed of all excess fat and the gravy is tastefully seasoned wtih onion flavoring and tomato paste. Reach for a can of tomato soup and a green pepper to finish the dish in easy style.

Large, flaky biscuits, always appreciated by the family, are mixed together with a few swirls of a fork, and baked while the roast beef and sauce are being heated.

For menu partners to complete the meal, serve a tossed salad, a canned or frozen vegetable and milk or coffee.

ROAST BEEF SHORTIES

- 2...cups biscuit mix
- 2-3 cup milk
- 2...tabatlespoons butter
- 2 cups buscuit mix
- 2-3 cup mulk
- 2 tablespoons butter
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- 1 can (1⅛¼ Oz.) roast beef with gravy
- 1 can 10½-oz. can condensed tomato soup
- ½ Cup water
- 2 teaspoons sugar

Stir buscuit mix and milk together with a fork to make a soft dough. Turn onto a lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead gently 8 or 10 times. Roll out ½-inch thick. Cut four 3½-inch buscuits with floured cutter. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in 450 degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes or until lightly browned. Meanwhile, saute green pepper in butter in medium size saucepan. Stir in remaining ingredients. Heat thoroughly. Split biscuits. Spoon meat mixture evenly over buscuit bottoms. Place buscuit tops on meat. Garnish as desired. Serve hot.

Serves 4.

King Crab—And Company

BROILED ALASKA KING CRAB

2 (12 oz.) packages frozen split legs of Alaska King crab. Choice of basting sauces.

Defrost crab and gently lift meat from shells. Cut into bite-sized pieces and return to shells. Place in shallow baking dish or individual ramekins. Top with desired barbecue sauce. Place 3 to 4 inches under preheated broiler and cook 5 to 8 minutes, or until crab is heated through. Baste once or twice with barbecue sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Note: In place of frozen split legs of Alaska King crab use:

2 (7-½ oz.) cans Alaska King crab or 1 pound frozen Alaska King crab.

Drain and slice canned crab or defrost, drain and slice frozen crab and place in individual ramekins. Baste and broil as directed above.

SNAPPY BARBECUE SAUCE

- ½ cup catsup
- ¼ cup water
- 2¼ tablespoons vinegar
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 2½ teaspoon dry mustard
- Worcestershire sauce
- ⅛ teaspoon chili powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt

Combine above ingredients in small saucepan. Simmer over low heat 5 minutes. Spoon a portion of the sauce over crab. Serve remaining sauce on the side.

TERIYAKI SAUCE

- ½ cup pineapple juice
- ¼ cup brown sugar
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce
- 1 tablespoon salad oil
- ¾ teaspoon ground ginger
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 clove garlic, minced

Combine above ingredients in small sauce pan. Heat to blend flavors. Spoon a portion of the sauce over crab. Serve remaining sauce on the side.

TARRAGON BUTTER

- ¼ cup melted butter
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon minced onion
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon crushed tarragon

Combine melted butter with remaining ingredients. Spoon over crab.

Fun Food For Halloween

Give youngsters a treat on that night when witches ride their broomsticks and spooks gather for mischief!

Hallow-Wienies are just the thing for the easiest of snacks: broiled frankfurters served between heated waffles, either plain or with all the trimmings. Any mother can readily complete this kind of autumn fare with crisp red munching apples, cider steaming cocoa topped with melting marshmallows and a choice of assorted doughnuts.

Wieners are a true convenience food in that they're already cooked when purchased. Five or six minutes in a broiler at moderate temperature will heat them to deliciousness. Split and place on heated or toasted frozen waffles. Serve them with the "works" for those who like them with everything like pickle or corn relish, mustard, catsup or chili sauce. They're vote-getters for quick preparation and easy eating.

Plan on two wieners and four waffle sections for each child as an average serving. You don't need to run out of supplies, however, because waffles can be kept on hand in the freezer and frankfurters can easily be stored in the refrigerator in their original wrapping four or five days. Other foods for this snack need only be set upon the table because there's no preparation involved.

If youngsters want to help, they might like to toast the waffles may also be heated the frankfuters. If desired, waffled may be heated in the oven according to manufacturers' directions.

Weiners split after broiling retain their juiciness. They'll also be easy to eat between the two waffle sections since they fit well. Small squares on the waffles appear to act as a kind of grip on the broiled hot dog.

Keep table decor simple but seasonal, using paper or plastic cups and plates with matching napkins. Woven baskets will hold doughnuts, a small "bushel" basket is attractive for red apples and a wooden tray will do beautifully for the Hallow-Wienies as they come heated to the table.

BIOGRAPHY OF A WINNER: Rafer Johnson, shown winning a decathlon race at the 1960 Olympics in Rome, began his winning ways as a newspaperboy in Texas. After moving to California, he was a high school letter man in four sports, setting seven track and field league records. As a UCLA senior, Rafer was student body president in 1959. He had first broken the ten-event world decathlon record four years earlier. He placed second at the 1956 Melbourne Olympics, then took the 1960 decathlon gold medal. In 1962, Rafer Johnson became West Coast Director of People to People, and has since appeared in movies and been a network sportscaster.

"...no work worth doing is worth less than your best. Newspaperboys are learning that it takes something extra to compete in today's world..."

Rafer Johnson

NEWSPAPERBOYS GET AHEAD

This year, International Newspaperboy Day coincides with the opening of the 1968 Summer Olympics in Mexico City. So this is a fitting time to give some thought to the things that make America — and Americans — great. Olympic decathlon champion Rafer Johnson puts it this way: "When I was carrying newspapers, I soon realized you've got to deliver in a way that's dependable. The job usually isn't easy, but no work worth doing is worth less than your best. America's newspaperboys are learning that it takes something extra to compete in today's world. I wish them success with this reminder: The winning formula is study, work, training to be ready."

The Treasury Department's U.S. Savings Bonds Division proudly joins in this traditional salute to the nation's newspaperboys. They've helped promote Savings Bonds and Stamps, and are buying Bonds themselves out of earnings—in many cases, to help pay for college some day. Newspaperboys know what's happening. And they'll help to make the future better for all of us.

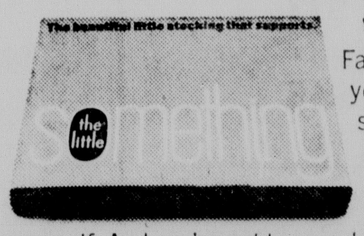
WIN 1 REALLY SMASHING DRESS.

Or 300 garter belts.



Win the Burlington Fashion Bankroll and you've got $300 to spend any way you want. On just two conditions: you've got to spend it on yourself. And you've got to spend it on clothes.

What do you have to do to win? Write your name is about all. The stores that sell the Little Something™ have the entry blanks. Fill one out, drop it in the entry box, and cross your fingers. If we pick your name you've got yourself a $300 wardrobe.*

What's the Little Something? The Little Something is the new support stocking that Burlington deliberately made for ladies like you who won't wear ordinary support stockings. (You'd rather ache first.) The difference is, one, we blended nylon with a new kind of spandex—it's lighter than a feather—and two, we blended it in a new way. The result? A support stocking that even you will like. (We don't call the Little Something "the beautiful little stocking that supports" for no reason at all.)

Ask to see a pair when you go to enter the Burlington Fashion Bankroll. You'll be surprised how much our support stocking doesn't look like one.

Oh, and one more thing about the Burlington Fashion Bankroll. There's one winner in this city. Which means you don't have the whole rest of the country to contend with.

Call—free—800-243-0355 and find out the name of the store nearest you where the Burlington Fashion Bankroll is running.

BURLINGTON 300 FASHION BANKROLL!

suburbia

All has not been quiet on the suburban social front during the past few days. The most pevalent cause for all of the recent activity has been the arrival and departure of guests — more specifically, guests of the out-of-state variety. Whether they come from the North, South, East or West; and whether they stay for five minutes or five days, visitors are always welcome in Lincoln where they find residents are among the best hosts anywhere. And well they should be, considering all the practice that they get!

In South Hills this past weekend, a bit of entertaining was done by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith and children, Susan, Craig and Kim. Arriving for a short visit with the Smiths were Mr. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Smith of Ottawa Kan.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stephens also were on the host and hostess list for weekend company. Their guests were Mr. Stephens' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Stephens of Denver, Colo., who returned home on Monday.

Some visitors from the west coast are currently being entertained in the Country Club Manor neighborhood. Keeping busy doing the entertaining are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Lind who have rolled out the proverbial red carpet to welcome Mrs. Lind's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Graham, of Van Nuys, Calif. The Californians arrived in the city last Wednesday.

Guests haven't been the only cause for activity in suburbia recently however. There also has been quite a bit of traveling going on — especially on the weekends when the NU Cornhuskers have an out-of-town football game!

Such was the case, as everyone knows, last weekend when the Minnesota Golden Gophers witnessed an invasion of the Scarlet and Cream.

Among those who made the trek northward were Park Manor residents Mr. and Mrs. Dale Theobald, and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Dutton. Of course, attending the game was the main purpose for the trip, but while they were in Minneapolis they also took advantage of the opportunity to call on former Lincoln residents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Miller.

A game of a different sort was on Saturday evening's agenda for a group of Park Manor residents. The requirements for this game are few — just a deck or two of cards, and some people to hold them! Enjoying an evening of pinochle were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Lavern Foss, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fatinos, Mr. and Mrs. Arrel Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Rouse and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Bowmaster. The host and hostess for the get-together were Mr. and Mrs. Fatinos.

The Eastmont neighborhood lost one resident recently when Jerry Coy left for Lafayette, Ind., where he attends college. Jerry, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Coy, has begun his sophomore year at Purdue University where he is majoring in mechanical engineering.

Conference Is Planned

Plans are being made for the annual fall conference of the Midwest Federation of Chaparral Poets, to be held Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 12 and 13, at Grand Island.

The Nebraska state regent, Madeline Swain of Grand Island, will preside at the two-day meeting at the Yancey Hotel.

Candlelight Wedding For Autumn Bride

The chancel of Grace Methodist Church was lighted by white candles and decorated with bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums for the wedding of Miss Agnes Virginia Wise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Wise, and David Dennis, son of Mrs. Ruth Dennis of Columbia, S.C., on Wednesday evening, Sept. 18. The ceremony was solemnized at 7:30 o'clock by the Rev. Henry Beatty, and Mrs. E. H. Unvert, organist, played the wedding music. The vocalist was Mrs. Don Gossard.

Empire frocks fashioned of Beauty red georgette over taffeta were worn by Mrs. Frank Wise, the matron of honor; Mrs. Ronald Bryant, the bridesmatron; and the junior bridesmaid, Miss Barbara Jackson. Petal caps veiled with illusion in frock tone completed their costumes.

Frank Wise served as best man, and seating the guests were Richard Jackson Columbia, S.C., and Willis Wise, Jr.

The bride appeared in a gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta designed in the skimmer silhouette. Seed pearls edged the crescent neckline and dotted the long, fitted sleeves, and beneath a back yoke, the gown was shirred into fullness and continued into an aisle-wide train. Her illusion veil was held by a crown of jeweled lace, and she carried a rounded bouquet of white and yellow roses.

Mr. Dennis, who has been serving as a lance corporal with the U.S. Marine Corps, and his bride will make their home in Columbia, S.C.

Venture Club Has First Anniversary

The week of Oct. 6 will be a busy one for the members of the Venture Club of Lincoln, a service organization for young career women, who will participate in the international observance of "Venture Week," Oct. 6 to 12, and also will celebrate the Lincoln group's first anniversary.

Sponsored by the Soroptimist Club of Lincoln, the Lincoln group of young women was chartered on Sept. 25, 1967, and its members have contributed much volunteer assistance "behind the scenes" for numerous local service projects.

To mark Venture Week, which will be celebrated by clubs throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico, the Lincoln members will work with the Capitol City Association for Retarded Children.

The local club also is making plans for participating in the organization's North Central Regional Conference, to be held Oct. 18, 19 and 20, at Sioux Falls, S.D.

Attending will be representatives of Venture Clubs in Iowa, South Dakota, Minnesota and Nebraska, and official delegates from the Lincoln club will be Miss Katrina Murray and Miss Evelyn Hibbeler. Also attending from Lincoln will be Miss Nancy Waechter and Miss Carol Ebeling.

Officers of the club are Miss Barbara Mueller, president; Miss Carol Ebeling, vice president; Miss Georgene Rohrig, secretary; and Miss Katrina Murray, treasurer.

Prenuptial Courtesies

Beginning the series of courtesies for Miss Ann Marie Vercellino, who has chosen a November date for her marriage to Robert W. Dingwell, was the bridal party held last Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Michael Little. Mrs. Little was hostess to 16 guests honoring the bride-elect, who was presented a miscellaneous shower.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Vercellino, the bride-to-be also will be the guest of honor on Friday evening, Oct. 4, when Miss Patricia Vercellino and Mrs. Sally Steenson will be hostesses at a party to be held at the Union Savings and Loan party room. Twenty-five guests have been invited and will present a linen shower to Miss Vercellino.

The bride-elect, who is a junior at the University of Nebraska, has revealed that her wedding will take place Sunday afternoon, Nov. 3, at Sacred Heart Church. Her fiance, a former student at the university, is the son of Mrs. Betty Dingwell and of Lloyd Dingwell.

THE TALK AROUND TOWN

We can't honestly say that the approaching weekend will be quite as gay as weekend before last or as the weekend of Oct. 12 — but it's a long way from dull. We also have news this morning which involves Oct. 30—

But now on to the weekend and its festivity.

* * *

A gala affair has been planned by the Terpsichorean Dancing Club for Saturday evening at Hotel Lincoln. The party is to be a "Fall Festival" and it opens the 1968-69 season for the club.

The affair, of course, is a dinner-dance and the plans are in the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Meisinger, Mr. and Mrs. John Capron and Mr. and Mrs. Victor Wendelin.

A guest couple will be Mr. and Mrs. Terrence Callen.

* * *

And speaking of dancing clubs — Several days ago we were talking about the Gay Nighters Club and its dinner dance at Hillcrest on Sept. 28. We told the whole story with the exception of giving the names of the new officers. Since there is no better time than right now we'll tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Donald R. Patoka were elected president; Dr. and Mrs. Dale Capek, vice-president; Mr. and Mrs. Larry Connealy, secretary, and Mr. and Mrs. Cornel Arendt, treasurer.

The October brides-elect are adding more than a little glamour to the social merry-go-round. One of the bevy of brides, Miss Virginia Binger whose marriage to Dr. David R. Beeson will take place on Oct. 12.

Miss Binger is to be party-ing this morning when Mrs. Thomas Dworak, Mrs. Kenneth Brolyer, and Mrs. Brolyer's daughter, Mrs. Jerry Barger, will compliment her with a coffee at the home of Mrs. Brolyer. During the morning the soon-to-be-bride will be presented with a linen shower.

Recent bridal courtesies honoring Miss Binger include the personal shower for which Mrs. Joe Carroll was hostess last Saturday, Sept. 28, when she entertained at luncheon at the Lincoln Country Club.

The former University of Nebraska coed, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Binger, has announced that her wedding will take place at an 11 o'clock morning ceremony, to be solemnized at Christ Methodist Church.

Her fiance, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. R. Beeson of Des Moines, Iowa, is a graduate of Brigham Young University and of the University of Nebraska College of Dentistry.

* * *

At the speed with which time flies from one weekend to another, we feel that we should mention the fact that the Lincoln alumni of the University of Kansas has a full schedule planned for Friday and Saturday evenings of Oct. 11 and 12.

On Friday evening there will be a dinner at the University Club when a color film of highlights of last year's football season (for KU) will be shown. A special guest at the affair will be KU's alumni director, Dick Wintermote.

Then, preceding the game on Saturday, there will be a buffet luncheon at Hotel Cornhusker for the Jayhawks alums.

* * *

Now about that something special on Oct. 30.

The United States Air Force Band is to be in Lincoln —at Pershing Auditorium — and this you probably already know. But did you know that a young man from Lincoln is a member of the band? He is, and his name is Robert J. Chab, Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Chab.

Our musician, who plays the tuba in the band, is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where he was a member of the Varisty Band, the chorus, and various other college music activities. He also was a member of the Lincoln Symphony Orchestra and played with the Lincoln Municipal Band.

We Hear That

Word arrived early on Wednesday morning that Joseph Carroll Bowman made his world debut on Oct. 2, in Augsburg, Germany. The young man is the son of Sp.4 and Mrs. Carrol Bowman, and his mother is the former Mary Ann Meisner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Meisner of Lincoln, a former coed at the University of Nebraska and a graduate of Bryan Memorial Hospital School of Nursing. Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bowman of Ardmore, Okla., are the paternal grandparents.

Program Training

Training sessions for the October program leaders of Lancaster County Extension Clubs have been scheduled for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday by Miss Esther Kreifels, county home extension agent.

The program topic, "Art Principles: Guides to Arranging Furniture," will stress the basic principles of balance, rhythm, proportion and unity. Carpet buying also will be discussed.

The instruction series which began Wednesday, continues as follows: Thursday, 9:30 o'clock, Bennett Martin Library; Thursday, 1:30 o'clock, Hill Hatchery, north Highway 77; and Friday, 1:30 o'clock, Bennet School music room.

To All 'Junking' Buffs—This Is For You

In the dark days of the depression when a hard-pressed homemaker bought household items or used furniture from a second-hand shop, the family was pledged to silence and the origin of the purchase forever shielded from neighborhood gossips.

In today's booming economy, however, "junking" has become a national avocation. Americans from coast to coast are gleefully making decorative capital out of hand-me-downs and "found" objects scavenged from second-hand stores, demolished buildings, antique shops, rummage sales, and auctions.

And there's nothing so proud as the dedicated hunter who has found a fine piece of cabinetry or a brass headboard at a bargain price and managed to restore it to beauty without the help — or the expense — of an outside professional.

To anyone who has purchased or inherited an "attic" antique and is anxious to try their hand at restoring Mrs. Mary Gaffney, a home care expert, suggests following this simple procedure:

1. Remove surface dust and dirt with a soft cotton cloth dampened in clear water. Brush out crevices and decorative moldings with a soft, dry brush. (Avoid soaps and detergents which can harm old finishes as well as soften furniture glues.)

2. When surface is clean and dry, apply a specialized polish with a beeswax base. Apply sparingly, using a soft, clean lint-free cloth. Only a very little polish is necessary or desirable.

3. Wipe off excess cream and use another soft, clean cloth to buff to a natural, lustrous sheen.

4. Follow this procedure every two or three days until the desired results are obtained. Since every application of the cream deep-cleans the surface of the wood, there's no danger of dulling or gummy polish build-up.

5. With the exception of oil finishes, which must be treated with boiled linseed oil, Vernax will restore new beauty to any high or low lustre surface, including antique and enamel finishes. To maintain a restored lustre, dust frequently and apply the beauty cream about twice a year.

For the happy "junker" who is hung-up on old metals, there are equally dramatic methods for restoring these items to useful beauty, Mrs. Gaffney said.

"If you've fallen in love with an old copper washtub or brass fireplace fender and the price is right, don't hesitate to make your purchase for fear of failing on the clean-up job. Absolute wizardry can be performed by anyone with a will and the help of the right specialized cleaners."

For hard-to-clean items such as fireplace equipment, there is a Heavy-Duty Copper & Brass Cleaner that will cut through years of tarnish, discoloration and even caked-on grease without hard rubbing.

Even cleaning old, blackened silver flatware and elaborate serving pieces can be comparatively effortless with the use of a sophisticated paste which does a double job of cleaning, polishing and protecting against tarnish in a single operation.

For all metal display pieces of silver, pewter, gold, copper and brass there is even a miraculous new spray which, when applied to clean, dry surfaces, forms a tarnish-preventing bond that will keep tarnish at bay for months.

What Is Your Safety I.Q.?

How's your safety savvy? You may know all the rules of the road, be an alert and careful driver, but how do you rate in the kitchen? This one room alone was responsible for 136,000 home fires in 1966 and the number's on the rise. Most of these fires were preventable. So right now, during National Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 6-12), make a mental note of the following safety points.

Don't leave the room when fat foods are cooking. If you have to make a phone call or answer the door bell, turn off the heat.

Don't let heat get too high when you're cooking with fats. Don't wear long frilly sleeves. If you have to reach across the stove for any reason, they can catch fire. The same goes for long hair. Pin it up or corral it into a pony tail.

Keep pot handles turned in.

Interior Designers, Mrs. Ellen Fowler and Mrs. Lynn Bibbs, will be available for consultation Thursday, Oct. 3rd, from 3 to 9 p.m. On display will be vignettes of Home Decor. Special Events Room, Lower Level Gateway.

Friday, Oct. 4th, 7 p.m.
You are invited to attend
A Decorator Coffee

Mr. C. S. Brommage, F.A.I.D., will conduct a panel of our experts, Mrs Lois Engelbrecht, Lamps and Accessories, Mr. James Pence, Lower Level Furniture Manager, Mr. W. L. Williams, Floor Coverings and Mr. Earl Heironymus, Credit Dept., who will discuss how to buy furnishings on credit.

Join us in an adventurous foreshadowing of tomorrow!

What are the newest trends for 1969? The "molded look," as seen through the eyes of the Paris Designers . . . "A La Chinoise", the eastern influence, the emphasis is on new materials and good construction . . . the balancing of periods with focus still on individuality. If you are going to decorate one room . . . a whole house . . . or if you just want one new thing, come to the Coffee Friday, 7 p.m. Special Events Room, Lower Level Gateway.

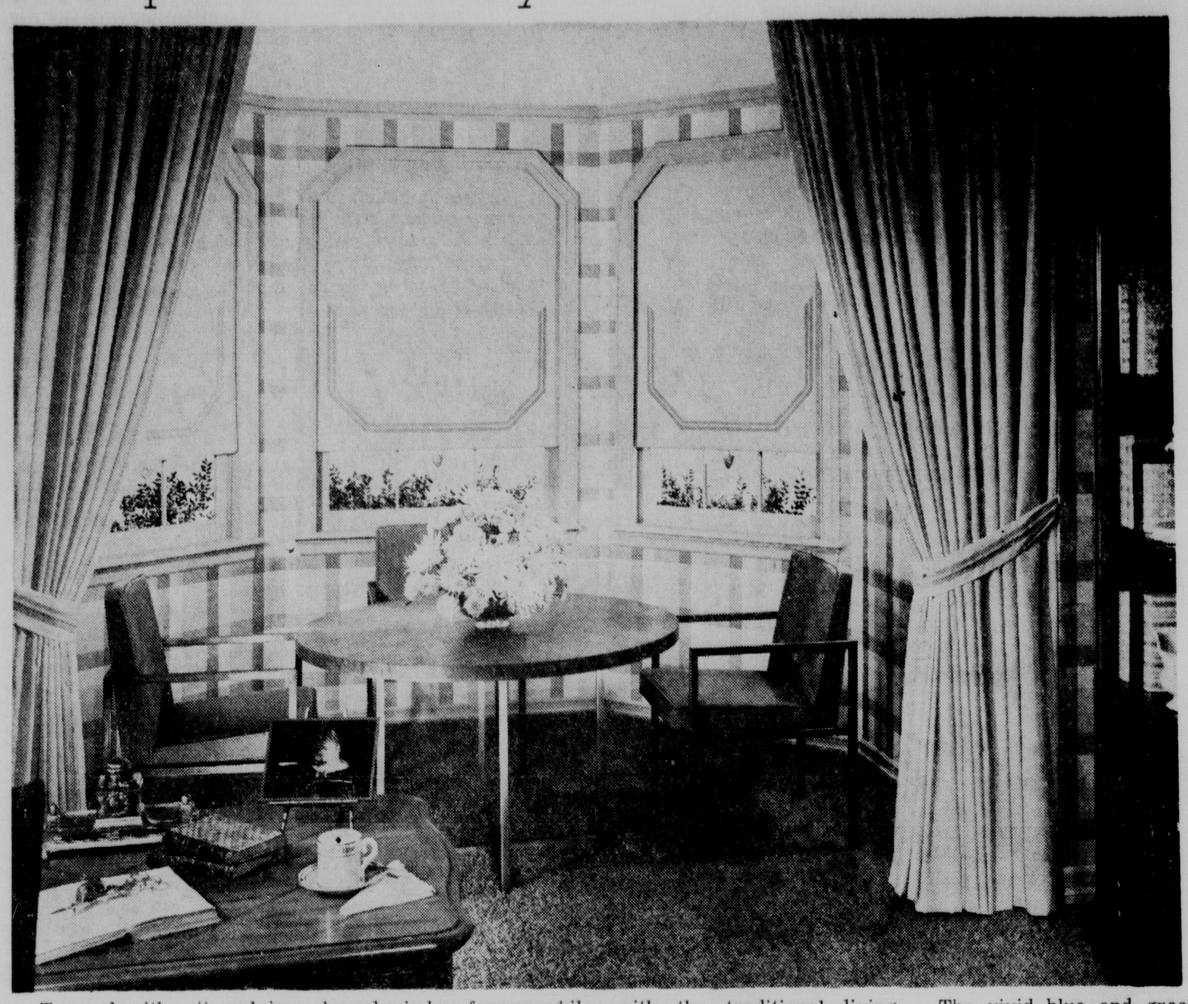
Use Of Window Shades, Sheer Curtains Inexpensive Way To Decorate Home



Teamed with wit and imagination, shades and sheer add up to one of the most noteworthy decorating duos of the season. This new combination brings with it a fresh young look very much at home in today's lightly-scaled interiors, and very much within the reach of almost every budget!

For example: shades-plus-sheers go to work on an old-fashioned bay at one end of a living room, turning it into the stunning dining alcove pictured above. Textured gold shades fit neatly into shaped window farmes while the sheers act as room-divider, imbuing old-fashioned portieres with new-fashioned know-how via the light look that only a textured translucent fabric can give them. They are ceiling-hung, and trimmed with the same gimp-on-velvet that dramatizes the shades. A bold plaid fabric, in soft tones of orange, butterscotch and white, dresses up the walls, and a copper-toned textured rug smoothly blends the contemporary feeling of the dining area with the traditional living room.

Then, there is a bevy of do-it-yourself ideas that can turn a teen-ager's room into a delightful one-room apartment — and easy-care materials throughout make housekeeping effortless! Three ordinary windows are unified and made important with a marvelously original, shade-and-sheer treatment in which room-darkening turquoise and white striped shades top lime half-shutters filled with sheer, white Fortrel.

The vivid blue and green floral fabric that climbs the window wall is repeated in a quilted version on a pair of wicker sofa beds, and the crisp white vinyl floor is color-sparked with a machine-washable, lime and blue area rug.

Or, you may prefer a striking, pale-toned contemporary bedroom, four pairs of floor-length creamy-yellow tie-back curtains are hung over matching shades to break up the long, dull expanse of window.

Preserving liberty is no easy job

The independence of newspapers is important because this independence is your best assurance that YOUR liberty and independence will be protected and preserved.

Newspapers make up the first line of defense against encroachment on the right of the people to know. They are outposts ever on the alert to note alarm signals and call for action when danger threatens.

Through centuries of history, people have learned that liberty is never entirely secure against violations. Even in a democracy such as ours there is the ever present threat of "managed news," the efforts to transact public business in secrecy, the controlled press conference and endless other devices designed to circumscribe the citizen's right to know.

This fight to keep newspapers independent is YOUR fight, for it is your independence which we are trying to protect. In police stations, in courtrooms, in labor headquarters and government bureaus, in executive mansions and legislative halls—today, as in the past, independent newspapers fight the good fight in defense of YOUR liberty.

Paperback Books For Schools

Parents will be happy to learn that the country's schools this year will have more books for their children to read, their children will be reading more, and that all of this won't cost the taxpayer one cent more.

That's because more schools than ever before are now devoted to an educational concept that for years was scorned by educators — paperback books.

"While taxes aren't likely to go down because of this phenomenon, they aren't likely to go up because of the need to buy more books," reports Lawrence Hertzberg, president of Hertzberg-New Method, Inc., Jacksonville, Ill., a major manufacturer and distributor of paperback books to schools.

Hertzberg, who works with more than 30,000 schools and libraries in the country, estimates that in excess of 50,000,000 paperback books will be used in classrooms and school libraries during the 1968-69 school year.

Hertzberg noted that 30 years ago titles which were acceptable for school use were limited to only a few — poetry and some classics. But today practically every hard cover book used in schools is available in paperback or Perma-Bound form.

"Today there are more than 5,000 titles considered suitable to supplement curriculum needs. And there's a growing trend among some of the country's more enlightened teachers to employ many of the 35,000 different paperback books distributed each year," Hertzberg added.

"With the increasing emphasis being placed on reducing the number of high school drop-outs, the problem of the 'reluctant' reader is receiving more attention," according to Hertzberg. "And many teachers are turning to some of the more colorful paperbacks, just to get the students to read.

"Teachers now realize that if poor reading and its attendant difficulties cause drop-outs, a major point of attack lies in learning how to encourage students to read," Hertzberg said.

Educators have learned that the use of paperbacks, especially with reluctant readers, facilitates individualized instruction economically, according to Hertzberg.

The key to reaching a reluctant reader is to unlock his interests. With so many paperbacks available today, it is possible to have different kinds of reading material for different interests available at low cost. And any attempt at individualizing instruction is dependent on having extensive resources immediately at hand."

But reluctant or advanced, students like paperbacks for the same reasons, and they, not their teachers, are primarily responsible for the acceptance of paperbacks by educational institutions this year.

"Students like paperbacks because they look less formidable than hard cover texts," he said. "They like the size; a paperback fits a girl's purse, a boy's hip pocket. Many students think the paperbacks are abridgements and therefore are easier to read. Actually 99 per cent of the paperback titles are complete editions," Hertzberg continued.

Paperbacks are also encouraging reading in other ways. Their low cost makes it possible for students to buy and own books rather than borrow them; hence the growth of school bookstores and libraries that sell paperbacks, and the simultaneous growth of student libraries at home.

"Paperbacks too," said Hertzberg, "make it possible to bring into the classroom differing approaches, beliefs judgments, and viewpoints on the same subject, for teachers are able to assign expanded reading on specialized topics where information is not available in standard texts."

Young Women To Play A Most Important Role At Olympics

A talented group of young women are being prepared by the Mexican Organizing Committee for a special role in Mexico's XIX Olympics — that of guide-interpreter for distinguished foreign visitors to the Games.

Over a thousand people from 20 to 35 years old have joined the Olympic guide corps to become "edecans." That is the word in Spanish but it comes from a phoetic rendering of the French aide-de-camp. Like those versatile military assistants, the chic, uniformed edecan of the Mexican Olympics will be a combination guide, companion, and advisor.

Edecans are assigned to three V.I.P types: International Olympic Committee and sports federations members; the foreign press; and a third group composed of athletes, participants in the cultural program and specially invited guests.

The edecan takes over as soon as the arrival of an Olympic visitor is official. She makes or confirms hotel reservations, greets her charge at the airport, whisks him through immigration and customs, and escorts him to his lodgings. The edecan then makes out a complete itinerary for the visitor, scheduling visits to sports installations, museums and tourist spots. She arranges theater and concert tickets and sets up interviews with Olympic, government, and sports officials.

These guide interpreters were first carefully screened and then given intensive training. In addition to Spanish, edecans are fluent in at least two other languages, most of which are represented in the guide corps (Swedish, Swahili, Hindu etc.).

In order to ground the girls in the archeology, art, and symbology imparted by the Mexicans on the Olympics this year, a special seven-week training course in Mexico's National School of Anthropology and History has been given to each guidette in subjects ranging from archeology to contemporary art. A series of lectures by outstanding Mexican experts in artistic, political and economic life round off the course.

The training program prepares the edecans to inform their guests on the history, geography, economy, art, culture and political background of Mexico, as well as on Olympic history and the sports to be presented in Mexico's Olympics.

The Indian In New York

BY JUDY KLEMESRUD
(c) New York Times Service

New York — The American Indian woman in New York is in a quandary. She is aware that it is "in" to be Indian this year; yet she can't help gritting her teeth whenever she sees non-Indian women wearing beads and buckskin in the name of "fashion."

She believes she is living in a city that is free of prejudice as far as Indians are concerned; yet she can't stifle her anger when other children greet her with "How?" or by emitting the "Woo-woo-woo" war whoop perpetuated by Hollywood.

She is proud when she learns that Indians, like the other minority ethnic groups, are becoming more and more in demand for modeling and television commercial jobs; yet she becomes understandably bitter when casting directors hire "phony Indians" — people who say they're Indians but aren't — or non-Indians to portray her people.

And, despite what seems to be a remarkable assimilation by her people into city life, she cannot help but be caught up in the current renaissance of Indian culture, which many Indians attribute to the new feeling of racial pride fostered by the Black Revolution.

A group of Indian women got together recently and decided to promote this new "Indian-ness." It had become apparent to them when they noticed that city Indians were wearing Indian braids and jewelry, giving their children Indian names, and passionately relearning their tribal language, history and dances.

The result was the American Indian Women's League, an organization that sponsors a series of monthly lectures by Indians and for Indians at the Community Church of New York City.

Their main goal, however, is establishing an American Indian Center in Manhattan that would coordinate the activities of the city's Indian groups and provide a meeting place for out-of-town Indian visitors.

"There's no place for Indians to gather in New York — no Indian restaurants or anything like that," said Mrs. Willard Hines, an Otoe-Pawnee from Oklahoma whose maiden name was Mifaunwy Shuna-Shunatona.

Mrs. Hines, who was Miss Oklahoma in the 1941 Miss America contest, was the prime mover behind the American Indian Women's League. She and her husband, a commercial artist, live with their teen-age daughters in Queens, N.Y. Her home also serves as headquarters for the year-old American Indian Information Center which, in addition to providing "non-Hollywood stereotype" information about Indians, also answers requests for the names of real Indians for modeling and speaking engagements.

ABBY: Mom may know her brother better than you do

DEAR ABBY: I am a 15-year-old girl with a slight problem. I have a favorite uncle (my mother's brother) who is 42. He says I am his favorite niece. We like to be alone together and talk, and he understands me better than either one of my parents.

My problem is my mother. She says she doesn't like me seeing so much of Uncle Bill, and that I should quit calling him up all the time (I love to talk to him on the phone). She even hinted that maybe the feeling wasn't exactly like it should be between an uncle and his niece, which is ridiculous. Do you think my mother is being fair?

FAVORITE NIECE

DEAR FAVORITE: I can't say, but I can only guess that your mother is looking out for your best interests. Listen to her, young lady. She knows her brother better than you know your uncle.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter-in-law is getting me down, but I refuse to be a meddling mother-in-law. She has three boys, and her eldest is her favorite. (This isn't just my opinion. Everyone who knows the family can see it). She buys clothes to fit the eldest, and the two younger ones have to wear them, too. The younger ones look like a couple of clowns. I think it is just terrible. I once bought the younger boys some nice slacks, shirts, and blazers, and she took all of it back to the store and put it toward clothes for the older one!

What can I do without getting in bad with her?

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: Where is your son? Tell him! If he doesn't set her straight, the next time you buy something for the two younger boys, tell the merchant that under no circumstances should he allow that mother to return it for a larger size. And why worry about getting "in bad" with her. Who needs her good will?

DEAR ABBY: Will you please give your opinion of the following? Also ask other readers what they think about it.

A lady was having lunch at a popular luncheon room at the noon hour. She sat there sipping a second cup of coffee while she slowly smoked a cigaret. Several people were standing waiting for a place at the counter.

While she was leaving, a woman who had been waiting said to her, "I thought you would never finish that cigaret!"

Do you think the rudeness on the part of the lady who was waiting was justifiable?

CURIOUS IN PORTLAND

DEAR CURIOUS: Rudeness is never "justifiable," but it is sometimes understandable.

CONFIDENTIAL TO H. J.: Everyone (and I do mean everyone) has problems of some kind. The healthy people are those who recognize this fact, and seek solutions. Sometimes the "solutions" require professional help. The unhealthy people are those who deny they have problems. Sadly enough, they become "sicker," because problems do not just disappear. They have to be resolved.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I were divorced several months ago. The divorce was on very friendly terms, and we see each other occasionally at social gatherings, etc. It is very awkward to introduce her as my "ex-wife." Is there a less embarrassing way?

DEAR ALABAMAN: Yes. Introduce her by name and skip her marital history — unless somebody asks.

ALABAMAN

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	Pass	4 NT
Pass	5 ♥	Pass	5 ♠

Opening lead — ace of diamonds.

After 21 boards had been played in the 80-board final of the Third World Bridge Olympiad, the Italians were leading the American team by 28 international match points, but by the time Deal No. 22 was over, Italy was ahead by 39.

When Forquet and Garozzo held the North-South cards, the bidding went as shown. Forquet's four notrump response was Blackwood, and he obviously intended to undertake a slam if it turned out that Garozzo had three aces.

But Garozzo turned up with only two aces, and the bidding died abruptly at five spades, which was easily made for a score of 450 points.

The auction was considerably more active at the second table, where Robinson and Jordan held the North-South cards for the United States against Belladonna and Avarelli.

Here, when Jordan opened the bidding with a spade, Avarelli (West) doubled for takeout. This double, with a singleton heart and unvulnerability besides, was in keeping with the seemingly dangerous principle followed by the Roman pair that a singleton in an unbid suit is not a bar to a take-out double when there are the high-card values present for an opening bid. The bidding proceeded:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♠	Dble	Redble
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♣	3 ♥
3 ♠	Pass	4 ♦	4 ♠
5 ♦	Pass	Pass	5 ♠
6 ♣	Pass	Pass	6 ♠
Pass	Pass	Dble

Jordan and Robinson judged the hand exceptionally well to continue on to six spades (down one,) since Belladonna would have wrapped up six clubs without a struggle, but, even so, they suffered a team loss of 550 points.

Their teammates at the other table had never entered the bidding even though they could have made a slam in either of two suits!

League Activities

The fall season of activities has begun for the members of the Heritage League of Lincoln, who have a busy calendar filled with plans for social events as well as participation in community service projects.

The October meeting of the group is planned for Tuesday evening, Oct. 22, when the members will try their talents at creating Christmas decorations.

Recently, the members voted to serve as volunteer guides at the newly-restored Kennard House. The group also plans to continue its assistance in vision screening of kindergarten pupils in the city and service to the Braille Club of Lincoln.

Mrs. Atlee Stephan, Jr., is president of the league, and other officers are Mrs. Jack Jarvis, vice president; Mrs. Bob Krejci, second vice president; Mrs. Pat Ash, secretary; and Mrs. John C. Cox, treasurer.

Hanoi's Charge Fantasy

HARRIMAN REPLIES

Paris (AP)— North Vietnam charged Wednesday that the Unites States intends to attack its territory and bring all Vietnam under Washington's domination.

"Utterly fantastic," replied U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman. Earlier he had accused North Vietnam of planning a massive invasion of the South.

Wednesday's 24th session of the Paris peace talks lasted a little more than three hours.

North Vietnam's special ambassador Xuan Thuy told the U.S. envoy: "You have been impudent enough to say that the United States seeks no war with North Vietnam.

"It should be clearly pointed out that the fundamental designs of the United States are to sabotage the 1954 Geneva agreements on Vietnam, to turn South Vietnam into a U.S. neocolony and military base, and to prepare for an attack against North Vietnam with a view to imposing its domination on the whole of Vietnam."

Harriman retorted: "Everybody knows this is utterly false. The U.S. has no designs on North Vietnam. The extremely limited objective of the U.S. has been stated many times, namely to permit the people of South Vietnam to decide their own future without any outside interference."

Before Thuy made his charge, Harriman said evidence uncovered by allied troops sweeping the once-neutral demilitarized zone indicated the North Vietnamese planned a massive invasion of the South.

He cited the network of trails, and the bunkers and arms caches found there in the last eight weekks.

Both Thuy and U.S. spokesman Harold Kaplan said the 24 sessions had produced "no progress."

Thuy said Hubert H. Humphrey's qualified bombing halt pledge Monday contained nothing original, and he termed it "deceitful."

Humphrey had said he would, if elected president, halt U.S. bombing of North Vietnam if he received evidence that Hanoi was willing to restore the status of the demilitarized zone.

"Mr. Humphrey, like Mr. Johnson, still demands reciprocity. Moreover, he even threatened to resume the bombing of North Vietnam," Thuy said. "We repeat once more that we do not accept any kind of reciprocity."

Austria Army Releases Men From Duty

© New York Times Service

Vienna — The organ of the ruling Austrian Peoples Party said Wednesday that the government was releasing 11,000 soldiers from active army service because the crisis following Czechoslovakia's occupation had eased.

"Of course spectacular developments may still occur in Czechoslovakia but they've become more improbable as time goes on," Volksblatt of Vienna, the government newspaper, declared in an editorial.

"It seems that neither (Czechoslovakia's) occupants nor the occupied want to escalate their contrasts."

Announcement of the decision to end military emergency measures taken after the invasion of neighboring Czechoslovakia followed a cabinet meeting here Tuesday.

Government speakers disclosed that previous consultations with President Franz Jonas, a former Socialist who is at present on a state visit in Yugoslavia, and opposition groups in parliament had shown agreement that the general situation in Central Europe had eased during the last few weeks.

It was learned that before the cabinet meeting Austrian officials had asked senior foreign diplomats here for their assessment of Soviet intentions.

Western representatives are known to have advised the Austrians that Soviet military moves against Rumania or Yugoslavia now seemed unlikely and that there was no sign of any acute threat to Austria's neutrality.

I flew from San Francisco to Los Angeles in the morning. A clear day, and you could see forever. Until you got on the edge of Los Angeles, and there the smog begins.

We are looking into TV—making a TV show, I mean.

It's an annual thing with me. Something like hay fever.

Sometime during the year, somebody in TV phones.

"Ever think of making a TV show?" he asks.

(I should tell him how often I've thought of it.)

"Well, I've got an idea," he says. "Could we have lunch next week and talk it over?"

☆ ☆ ☆

After many a lunch, many a year, I have yet to go on a television show of my own.

I go on other people's shows —"and now let me introduce etc."

You then are asked daffy questions. And you give daffy answers. There is no pay for this work. It is a labor of love for host and sponsor.

The idea is to get one of these things for your very own. Where you are the cut-out between the sponsor and the puppets. In the gold mines, man, with pick and shovel.

☆ ☆ ☆

The most interesting thing about TV conferences is the picture the man has of you.

"I see you as smoking a pipe," the TV man said. "Behind you is a globe of the world. Now you say something like, 'Good evening, Mr. and Mrs. America' — with a big smile, see? Get the idea?"

I said: "It sounds like Walter Winchell crossed with Richard Nixon."

"I'm just talking it off the top of my head," he explained. "Naturally you'll write it your way."

Although all writers blast TV for apathy to violence, we'd all give eyeteeth to get on the picture screen.

As I see the TV people's idea of me, I am a pipe smoker. They all agree on that. Explorer stuff.

I said: "I don't smoke a pipe — at least not often. I hate sleeping on the ground. I'm more a pub explorer type."

"Of course," he said generously. "We want you to do it your way. Now, you put down the pipe and give the globe a whirl. You like that? I thought you would.

"You give it a whirl and you say, 'And now we are going to take you to faraway fascinating and so on.' "

☆ ☆ ☆

As I see these things, I would come on with a pipe. I would say, "Good evening, ladies and gentlemen of the TV world."

Or, "Hello, all you out there in TV land."

Or, "Hi!" Simple but friendly.

We then proceed to say there is something interesting coming up. At this point I go off the screen. A man in a white coat comes on.

"Does nagging indigestion nag you?" he says. "Half of today's people suffer from sluggish livers. Liverlover is a new discovery that lets your liver breath."

I come on again, but I am whipped. Take a rating sample, the person interviewed says: "Yeah, I saw the show. He's the slug with the sluggish liver, right?"

☆ ☆ ☆

Well, it was a satisfactory lunch. The liver remedy people are having plenty of problems, and it's flattering they should think of me to help.

The federal agency watching over TV watches the liver remedy folks.

Used to be you could diagram the problem. The man in the white coat showed a little drawing of your liver, looking liverish.

He said: "Now watch Liverlover go to work!"

He dropped a pill into the diagram. The pill went down and began to fizz like a live bomb. It fixed your liver but good.

Back to the man with the pipe. He doesn't look too good either.

CARDS WIN AS GIBSON FANS 17

...4-0 Victory Ties Series Mark

St. Louis (AP) — Mayo Smith shook his head sadly when asked to comment on Bob Gibson's record 17 strikeouts against his Detroit Tigers in Wednesdays opening World Series game.

"It's like the old story about asking Mrs. Lincoln how she liked the play," commented Smith.

Gibson left the Tigers stone, cold dead in Busch Stadium with a 4-0 victory for the favored St. Louis Cardinals that sent all hands scurrying to the record books.

In addition to breaking the strikeout record of 15, put into the book by Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers against the New York Yankees in 1963, Gibson tied the old Yankee greats, Lefty Gomez and Red Ruffing, with his sixth straight Series victory. His sixth consecutive complete game victory put him all alone in the books.

The drama mounted for the 54,692 in sunny Busch Stadium as Gibson charged at the record. It seemed that everybody knew he had 14 going into the ninth inning. A Dixieland band set the pattern by tooting away on "Hold That Tiger."

Mickey Stanley, the leadoff man in the ninth, went to a 2-2 count and fouled off four pitches, each accompanied by a chorus of sighs. Finally, he singled to center.

Now it was Al Kaline, who had struck out twice earlier. Gibson got two quick strikes, then a ball. After two fouls, Kaline became strikeout victim No. 15, tying the record.

Norm Cash, also a victim in the second and sixth, came up for the fourth time. There was a tingle of anticipation as he went to 1-2, fouled off three in a row and then looked at a ball. When Gibson blew the third strike past him for No. 16, everybody in the park rose in a standing ovation. A giant cannon cracker exploded in left field.

Tim McCarver, the Card catcher, came out in front of the plate, holding the ball. Gibson sneaked a look at the scoreboard and read that the 16th was a new record.

Willie Horton, whose error had helped the Cards score three big runs on Denny McLain, their 31-game winner in the fourth, was to be the last batter.

When Horton became strikeout No. 17 on a 2-2 pitch, the park erupted. Gibson s teammates mobbed him as he strode toward the bench and a post-game television interview.

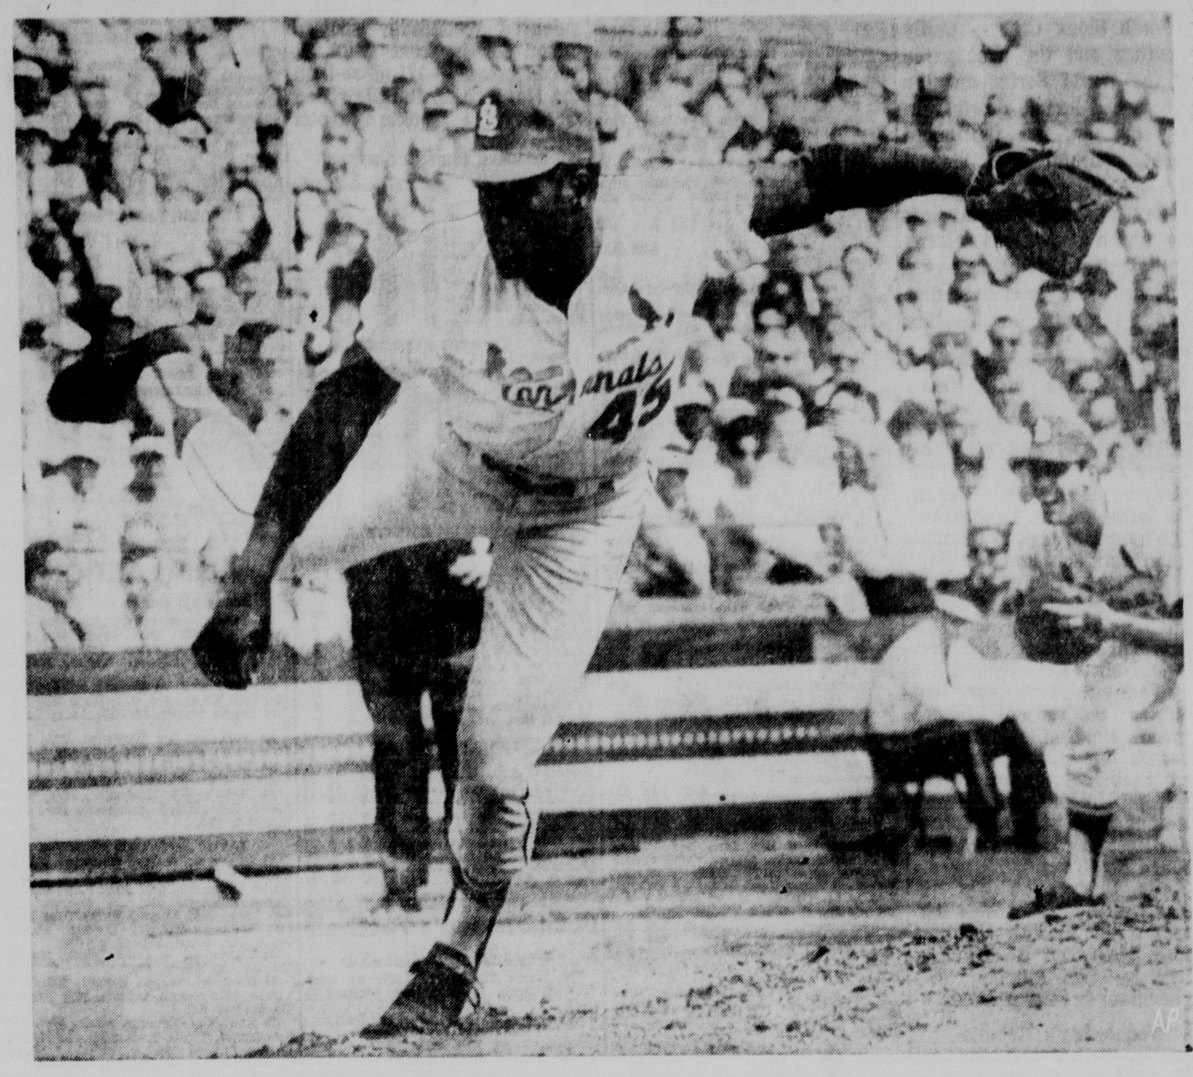
The first great confrontation between Gibson, the man with the fabulous record earned run average of 1.12, and McLain, the first 31-game winner since Lefty Grove in 1931, had gone to the Cards Series hero of 1967. He struck out everybody in the order at least once while McLain was victimized by his own wildness and shoddy Detroit fielding before he departed for a pinch hitter in the sixth, trailing 3-0.

Enroute to the record, Gibson got Kaline and Cash each three times, Horton, Jim Northrup and Bill Freehan each twice and Dick McAuliffe, Mickey Stanley, Don Wert, McLain and pinch hitter Eddie Mathews once.

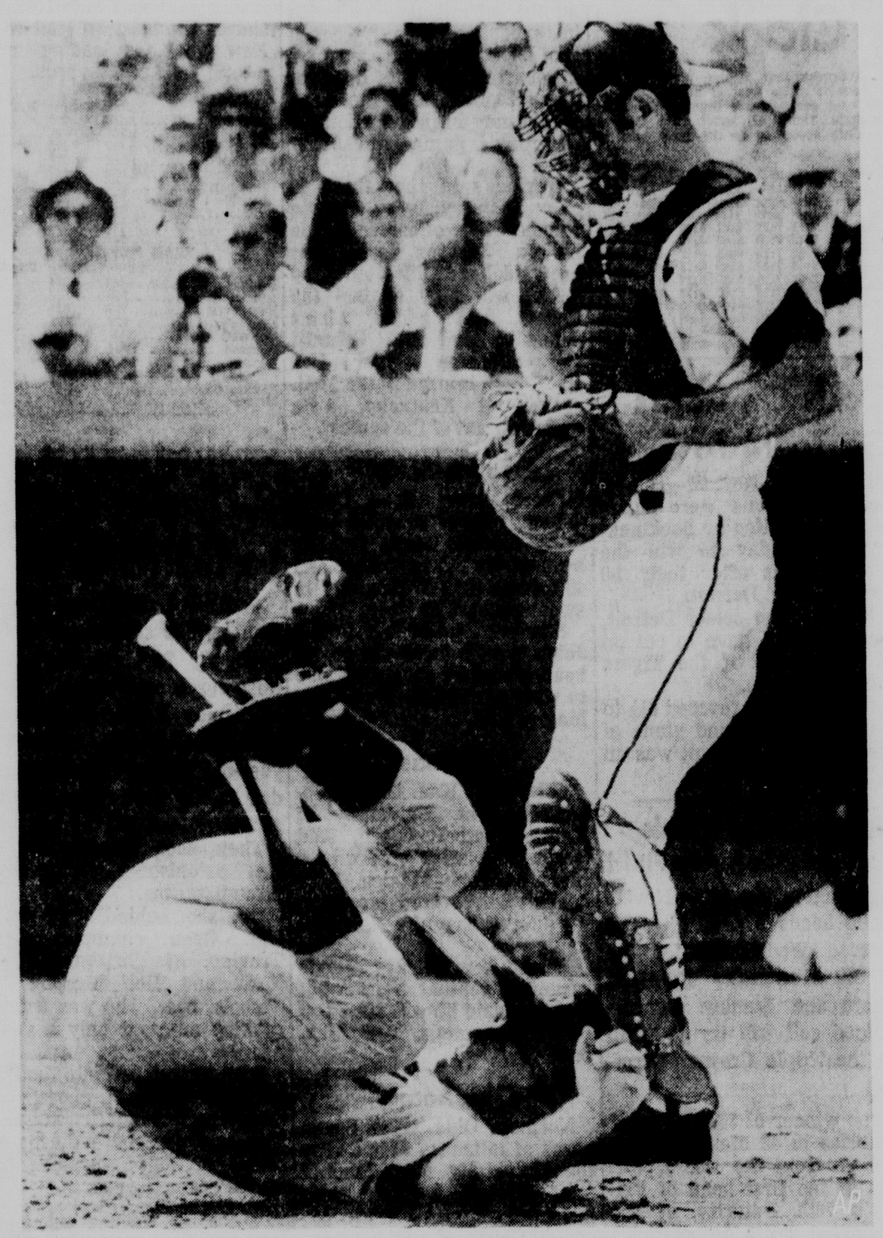
The Cardinals struck quickly in the fourth when McLain suddenly lost his control. He walked Roger Maris on four straight pitches, retired Orlando Cepeda on a foul pop to Norm Cash and then walked Tim McCarver on four pitches.

Mike Shannon singled to left field, scoring Maris with the first run. When the ball went through Willie Horton for an error, McCarver moved to third and Shannon to second. Julian Javier then singled on the ground to right, driving in McCarver and Shannon.

Lou Brock, who had stolen a base in the third, ripped a pitch by relief pitcher Pat Dobson into the right center field stands, about 400 feet away, for the fourth Card run in the seventh.



ST. LOUIS HERO . . . Gibson en route to his record-setting victory.



BOTTOM'S UP . . . Tigers' Kaline hits the dirt to avoid a wild Gibson pitch in the fourth inning.

Tigers Laud Card Conqueror; McLain's Control His Undoing

St. Louis (AP) — Bob Gibson was at his best and Denny McLain wasn't. That was the whole story of the Cardinals' 4-0 World Series victory Wednesday over Detroit.

"He wasn't weary," said Tiger manager Mayo Smith in the Detroit dressing room after the game. "Control was his problem."

The brash Tiger right-hander, who had a 31-6 season record, walked three men in the five innings he worked. Two of them came in the fourth inning, three-run rally and came in front of a pair of singles.

"I was having trouble controlling everything in the bullpen today, too," McLain said.

Meanwhile, Gibson pitched five-hit ball and set a Series record by striking out 17 men. "That was the greatest performance I've ever seen," McLain said of Gibson's pitching.

McLain said the hot weather didn't bother him. "I don't think the weather bothered anybody," he said. "Of course, they made a little heat out there, too," he added, referring to the Cardinals' performance.

"He's (McLain) a hot weather pitcher; heat didn't affect him," Smith added.

The much publicized confrontation between McLain and Gibson became Gibson's masterpiece early as he struck out seven of the first nine Tigers he faced.

McLain only allowed three hits, but couldn't get the ball over the plate and was behind on many batters.

"I just had real bad control; There's nothing more I can say about it," he said.

Smith said McLain will pitch against Gibson Sunday in Detroit as planned.

It was Al Kaline's strikeout in the ninth inning that equalled the record for Gibson. The time at bat before that Kaline doubled.

"I wasn't thinking about striking out," he said. "He's (Gibson) got a real good breaking ball."

"His pitching was on a par with anything I've ever seen.

"I thought he challenged me the last time at bat. The first three times he threw breaking pitches, then just fastballs."

Mickey Stanley, who got two of the five hits off Gibson, said both came on curve balls. "The first was high and inside where I'm sure he didn't want to throw it," Stanley said.

"He's definitely the best pitcher I've ever faced," he said.

"He had an excellent breaking ball," said Kaline. "I know he's a great pitcher, probably one of the greatest."

McCord Signs With Mustangs

Omaha (UPI) — Omaha Mustang general manager Jack Payne announced Wednesday night the club had signed Jim McCord of Fairbury, a 6-2 255-pound defensive tackle from last year's University of Nebraska squad.

Payne said McCord, who is now employed by the Lincoln Police Department, would remain inactive this week to give him a chance to work into the Mustang system.

McCord was released earlier this year by the Minnesota Vikings.

NU Punt Return Coverage To Face Test In Shanklin

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

Nebraska's punt return defense has been good through the Huskers' first three victories, but head coach Bob Devaney acknowledges they haven't yet been challenged by anyone the caliber of Kansas' Donnie Shanklin.

"Our punt return defense has been pretty good," he said Wednesday. "But last week against Minnesota was the first time you could give credit to the team for that because in the first two games our kicker didn't punt the ball far enough to get it run back.

"But last week, we got some good punting and the defense against punt returns was good. However, we haven't had a challenge like we're going to face with Shanklin."

The Husker coach says the key to good defense against punt returns is "to have players who want to get downfield real fast and who stay in the area assigned to them.

"Jim McFarland and Joe Orduna have good speed and they do a real good job in covering punts."

Coaches must go with the same teams they have on the field for punting situations, but specialty platoons are substituted for kickoffs.

The Huskers' kickoff team consists of Jim Decker, McFarland, Jerry Murtaugh, Bob Best, Dave Morock, Paul Rogers, Jim Hawkins, Ken Geddes, Tom Heller, George Chandler and Sherwin Jarmon.

On kickoff returns, Nebraska lines up with Carl Ashman, Wally Winter, Dan Delaney, Gale Williams and Dennis Ford across the front. McFarland and Paul Topliff on the wings, Dan Schniess in the center with Orduna, Dick Davis and Mike Green deep.

The Husker coaches have switched Gale Williams from right tackle to right guard where he will back up Joe Armstrong. Don McGhee moves up to the No. 2 right tackle spot behind Ed Hansen. Center Bob Mawhiney has been moved to a tackle spot.

"We are moving Williams back to guard because he did a good job there for us last year," Devaney explained. "And I think by moving him to tackle earlier, we made an average tackle out of a pretty good guard."

With Williams moving to guard and the 280-pound McGhee moving up to the second unit at tackle, they give the Huskers' second defensive platoon good size, although Devaney says he would like to see a little less weight on McGhee.

"We are taking a look at McGhee with the second unit because we want to see if he can get the job done." Devaney points out. "He needs to lose some more weight and he needs to get in better condition."

Flanker Mick Ziegler and defensive safety Randy Reeves were absent from Wednesday's practice session because of the flu. All Husker gridders are being given flu shots.

Lolich's Motorcycles Shut Off Organ Music

. . . DETROIT MOUND STAFF FLEXIBLE

St. Louis (AP) — Mickey Lolich will be the starting pitcher for the Detroit Tigers in the second game of the World Series today — if he can find a way to get to the ball park.

He left all his motorcycles in Detroit.

But then maybe it's just as well. The latest one he's riding is a test cycle. All Lolich is supposed to do is see if he can blow it up while he's on it.

But Lolich, who has five motorcycles of varying shapes and sizes, and a 1½-mile track on a plot of land near his home, takes all his motorcycle riding in stride — even if the Tigers management doesn't.

"I used to get some static," Lolich admitted before Wednesday's first Series game. "But it's been my hobby for eight years now and I have a definite fear of getting hurt. Besides, my two-year-old daughter usually rides with me so I'm not about to get myself hurt."

Lolich also knows what a motorcycle can do. He ran into one when he was his daughter's age.

"I drove my tricycle off a curve," Lolich recalled, "and hit the kickstand of a parked motorcycle. The bike came down on top of me, lying on my chest. My mother has always been petrified of cycles ever since.

"I was pinned with it on my chest and she couldn't lift it — and anything could have happened. But she ran and got a neighbor and he lifted it off. So, I survived with only a broken collarbone."

And so, when Lolich took to motorcycles as a hobby eight years ago, mom naturally was just a bit upset.

"But I solved that," Lolich explained. "Before the year was out she was riding one down to the beach."

Now Lolich has graduated — to testing bikes for a motorcycle firm.

"It's my fifth cycle," Lolich explained, "and I'm supposed to see how well the engine will hold up. I'm supposed to see if we can blow it up. But there won't be any parts flying. Something in the engine's just supposed to go 'clink.' "

At least that's what the company promised.

Meanwhile, Lolich is thinking about Thursday's start against Nelson Briles of the St. Louis Cardinals, a pair currently taking a back seat to Denny McLain and Bob Gibson.

"That seems to be all I've been reading about," Lolich said. "But you don't get annoyed, you just sit back and wait for your time to come."

At the same time, Lolich, who won 17 games during the Tigers' run for the pennant, isn't about to take a back seat to anyone — even teammate McLain, the 31-game winner equally as famous for his pitching as his organ playing.

"You know," said Lolich, "I've been playing the drums hard on them. I didn't know you could have so much going for you in the music field."

Gibson Says Tigers Surprised At Breaking Stuff

RED SCHOENDIENST

St. Louis (AP) — Manager Red Schoendienst, pitcher Bob Gibson and the St. Louis Cardinals agreed on one thing: Gibson's shutout victory over Detroit in the first game of the 1968 World Series was one of Gibson's best efforts.

"This was one of the best games by Gibson," Schoendienst said. "I'd have to say yes. After all, how many pitchers strike out 17 batters? He's pitched just as well at other times but just didn't get as many strikeouts."

The 17 Tigers Gibson fanned broke the World Series record of 15 set by Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers against the New York Yankees in 1963.

Someone asked if the "easy" victory over the Tigers and their pitching ace, 31-game winner Denny McLain, would make the Cardinals complacent.

"Easy?" Schoendienst replied. "I didn't think it was that easy. We just got a couple of hits at the right time."

What about McLain?

"We'd never seen McLain," Schoendienst said, "but we knew if we'd lay off his high stuff-pitches above the shoulder, up around the neck and eye level and make him throw strikes we'd have him."

Gibson, who won 15 games in a row during the regular season, didn't call it his best game, but said it was one of the most important.

And he said he thought the Tigers were surprised by his breaking stuff.

"They were swinging at my curve like it was a fast ball," Gibson said.

Gibson said he threw his slider a lot when he was behind the batter, but that most of his third strikes were chalked up with his fast ball.

Catcher Tim McCarver said he and Gibson never got together and talked over the Detroit batters.

"We talked about them at team meetings, but Gibby and I never discussed them," McCarver said.

Base-stealing ace Lou Brock jammed his right shoulder in the third inning when he stole second with a slide.

"I did the same thing early in the season," Brock said. "You never know how much it'll bother you until the next day."

It didn't bother Brock during the rest of the opening game. He hit a long home run in the seventh.

General manager Bing Devine sounded almost as if he felt sorry for McLain, the losing pitcher.

"He didn't pitch that badly. This was a tough day, no matter how good you are, to try to overmatch Gibson," Devine said.

Longshots Greet Atokad Faithful

. . . OPENING DAY

South Sioux City — Chilly weather and the first game of the World Series cut the crowd and handle down from a year ago, but the horse racing faithful who viewed the opening day of Atokad's 28-day season Wednesday saw one of the best-priced returns of the entire Nebraska season plus two other longshots that came through for healthy payoffs.

The winning horses in the fourth through sixth races provided the day's action, with Kay Toes returning $115.20, $56.80 and $16.40 across the board in the fifth following Kelly A's $51.40 to win in the fourth. Brainpower then came through to triumph in the sixth heat and pay $34.

Kay Toes, owned by Kay H. Ackerman of Great Bend., Kan., was making only its sixth career start and first on a Nebraska track. The two-year-old which never had run in the money before moved along the inside through the stretch and nipped another longshot, Sweet Attempt, by a neck. Sweet Attempt paid $48 and $22.20. Dale Rettele rode the victory aboard Kay Toes.

Kelly A. won for only the second time in 13 outings this year, Fred Ecoffey booting home Margaret Ackerman's entry by two lengths. The Ackermans are not related.

Four Buffs Back; 'Cat Line Not Set

. . . MISSOURI PAIR OUT

Colorado

Boulder, Colo. (AP) — Four University of Colorado football players who have been hobbled with injuries were pronounced ready Wednesday for the Buffaloes' opening Big Eight Conference game with Iowa State at Ames Saturday.

But coach Eddie Crowder said defensive tackle Dave Capra will have to be held out of the contest because of injured knee ligaments suffered in practice Monday.

One of the four recovered players is defensive end Bill Blanchard who suffered a severe thigh bruise in preseason practice.

The others declared ready are fullback Tom Nigbur, middle guard Bill Collins and defensive tackle Dave Perini. All were injured in the 10-0 loss to California last Saturday.

Kansas State

Manhattan, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State coach Vince Gibson still was unsure Wednesday about his starting tackles for Saturday's game at V.P.I.

The team worked out in shorts and shoulder pads, satisfying Gibson early in the drills, but tailing off, he said, toward the end.

Missouri

Columbia, Mo. (AP) — "I'm really discouraged about the number of mistakes we made in execution today," coach Dan Devine said after Missouri finished its heaviest football practice of the week Wednesday in preparation for Saturday's game with Army here.

Devine said that there is only a "very, very remote chance" that offensive tackle Larron Jackson, who has been sidelined with a sprained ankle, will play against the Cadets and added that defensive end Bill Schmitt and offensive center Con Rees, both injured in the M.U. opener at Kentucky, are definitely out of the contest.

Iowa State

Ames, Iowa (AP) — Coach Johnny Majors sent his Iowa State football team through a relatively light one hour and 40 minute drill Wednesday in sweat clothes.

Starting tailback Jack Johnson's injured knee is healing and he should be able to start against the Buffaloes, Majors said.

Kansas

Lawrence, Kan. (AP) — Pepper Rodgers, University of Kansas football coach, said Wednesday after viewing films on New Mexico, "We haven't discovered anything we didn't know after the first game."

Linebacker Mickey Doyle resumed contact work, but Rodgers said he will start Pat Hutchens against New Mexico.

Oklahoma

Norman, Okla. (AP) — Seven cases of influenza didn't keep the University of Oklahoma football team from a good, hard workout Wednesday, coach Chuck Fairbanks reported.

St. Louis was favored 6½ to 5 to win the second game of the series and Detroit was an 11½ to 10 underdog.

Houston Does Turnabout, Attack Best

New York (AP) — Houston won the American Football League's Eastern title last year with the poorest passing offense in the entire circuit.

Wednesday, the Oilers were No. 1 in passing offense and a half game out of the Eastern basement.

Official AFL statistics released Wednesday show the Oilers leading the league in total offense with 1,446 yards gained and in passing offense with 952 yards gained. But they've dropped three of four games and are tied with Buffalo, just ahead of winless Miami.

Oakland shows the top rushing offense with 676 yards and is second to Houston in total offense with 1,258 yards gained.

Defensively, Boston, which shares the Eastern lead with New York, is leading with a total yield of 692 yards.

Golfers Fire 3-Under-Par In Rainstorm

Southport, England (AP) — Rain, which soaked the 7,140-yard par 74 Royal Birkdale links for a solid week, failed to dismay England's Tommy Horton and South Africa's 20-year-old Bobby Cole Wednesday in the first round of the $200,000 Alcan golf tourney.

They shot three-under-par 71s, astonishing under the circumstances.

One shot behind at 72 were U.S. Open champion Lee Trevino, of Horizon City, Tex., and Bob Murphy of Nichols, Fla., who was a top-ranking amateur only a year ago.

Scores stretched into the 80s as the select field, chosen by their performances in the U.S. and elsewhere during a series of four tournaments, sloshed over the course.

Northeast, Sidney Set As Prep Grid Choices

. . . THREE GAMES IN LINCOLN

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

I responded under pressure last week to pick 121 high school games correctly while missing just 28 (conveniently just threw out the ties to help the average a little) and came up with a 200-point improvement of .812.

Fearlessly plowing forward, however, here come another 150 prep games to be played throughout the state in another heavy weekend of gridiron action.

Three games at Seacrest Field highlight the weekend for the Capital City fans with the Huskers idle.

Another intra-city clash starts it off Friday night when East and Lincoln High meet, with two games slated for Saturday.

Southeast hosts powerful Fremont in the afternoon at 2 p.m. while Northeast and Pius X tangle in the evening. Both night games start at 7:30.

The eight-man fan is in for a good game at nearby Elmwood, where the No. 1 ranked Pirates meet No. 2 rated Cook-Talmage.

Some other games of special interest include Bellevue at Creighton Prep, Central at Boys Town, Benson at Burke, Ryan at Westside and Tech at Council Bluffs Thomas Jefferson, all in the Omaha area.

Two games that will draw special interest pit Class B teams against Class A when Sidney meets Scottsbluff and Holdrege hosts Kearney.

Lincoln High at East (Seacrest Field, Friday) — East continues to improve, but the nine-touchdown production of Mike Shea and Stan Johnston in the last two games indicates the Links are too powerful.

Fremont at Southeast (Seacrest Field, Saturday afternoon)—A real test for the Southeast defense, which will be fortunate to hold it close.

Northeast at Pius X (Seacrest Field, Saturday night) — Could be one of the best games of the weekend. Pius may be a Class B school, but they play and act like the "big boys." Northeast in a close one.

Cook-Talmage at Elmwood — When No. 1 and No. 2 meet, you have to go with No. 1.

Bellevue at Creighton Prep — We see winless Bellevue in an upset.

Crete at Nebraska City — Crete has been improving each week. Solidified its game against Seward last week.

Scottsbluff at Sidney — Sidney bombed Class A Alliance last week, 63-0. Might be a long night for halfback Larry Lingwall who transferred this summer, leaving Sidney for Scottsbluff.

Kearney at Holdrege — Another Class B school is heard from.

Denver Rockets Cut Ex-Husker

Denver (AP) — The Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association said Wednesday they have placed three guards, including veteran Grant Simmons, on waivers.

The release of Simmons, former Nebraska star and the only Rocket to see action in every game last season, along with 10th round draft choice Charlie Parks of Idaho State and free agent Thales McReynolds of Miles, Ala., College, reduced the training camp roster to 14 men.

Big 8 Scoring Almost Doubled

Kansas City — The explosive offenses of the Big Eight Conference football teams are scoring more now than ever before and they are enjoying it more.

Almost twice as many points have been scored by Big Eight teams so far this year than at a similar point last season. As a league, each team is averaging almost 23 a game, up over 11 points in a year's time.

Most prolific has been the quick scoring Kansas (2-0) unit, which can be held accountable for 85 points so far, 47 against Illinois and 38 against Indiana. Typical of the big jump is Iowa State, showing 68 points after three games (2-1), an average of almost 23. Last year, the Cyclones were 8.6 for the year.

Reflecting the scoring drives is the offense, now led by the Jayhawks with a 420 per-game average. That is 30 yards over the total mark held by Missouri after a pair of games.

Surprisingly heavy with the rushing game, mainly due to the return to form of Don Shanklin and the development of John Riggins, the Jayhawks are currently racking up 303 yards a game on the ground. That is more than double the average (150.3) Kansas had for the season last year. It has been 11 years since a Big Eight team averaged over 300 yards a game on the ground — Colorado in 1957 (322.4).

Taking over the passing offensive leadership last weekend was Nebraska (3-0), holders of an 181.3 average after three games. It is the Huskers who dominate the defensive tables, picking up where they left off last year when the national defensive title fell to them.

Tops in rushing defense with a 91.0 mark, after holding a vaunted Minnesota running attack to 83 last week, the Nebraskans also rank a very close second in passing defense. Missouri has given up 112 a game, the Huskers 113.7. Nebraska, though, is best in total defense, besting the Tigers, 204 to 236.

It is a three-way scramble for the defensive category which means the most — scoring. With a shutout last weekend, Missouri took over the lead, allowing only six points a game. Next comes Nebraska at 8.0. Colorado is third with 8.5.

Power Line Approval Asked

The Nebraska Electric Generation & Transmission Cooperative has applied to the Power Review Board for approval to build eight miles of transmission line and a substation costing $1.2 million.

The whole project will cost $2.3 million with other segments in Iowa and South Dakota, G&T General Manager Dil Blatchford said.

The Nebraska applications asks for approval to build eight miles of 230-kilovolt line from the Nebraska-South Dakota state line near South Sioux City to Twin Church west of Dakota City.

Blatchford said the line is needed to provide service in northeast Nebraska, especially in the Twin Church and Emerson areas.

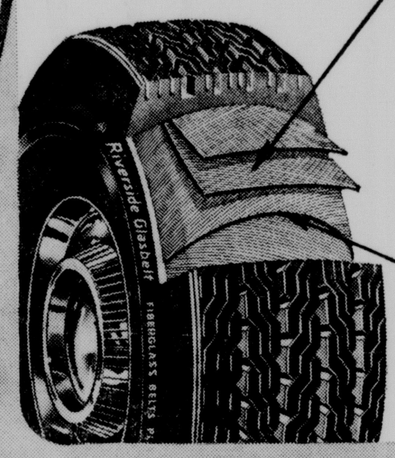
WARDS Riverside PASSENGER TIRE 4-WAY GUARANTEE

1. LIFETIME QUALITY GUARANTEE on the quality of material and workmanship for the life of the original tread. Adjustment prorated on tread wear based on price in effect at the time of adjustment plus Federal Excise Tax.
2. LIFETIME ROAD HAZARD GUARANTEE(except repairable punctures) for the life of the original tread. Adjustments prorated on tread wear based on price in effect at the time of adjustment plus Federal Excise Tax.
3. TREAD WEAR GUARANTEE for period specified. Adjustments based on price in effect at the time of adjustment plus Federal Excise Tax of same size and type less a specific Dollar allowance. (Tread wear allowance not applicable to tires used commercially.)
4. SATISFACTION GUARANTEED NATIONWIDE. Return tire to nearest Ward branch for adjustment.



2 fiber glass belts stabilize the tread with a tensile strength greater than steel

That's stable. So stable, the tread won't squirm like it does on ordinary tires. So it wears longer. Up to 40% longer than the same tire without these belts. All that strength holds the tread open. Lays it down flatter. Socks it to the road.

2 plies of tough nylon cord for high speed dependability

Cross plies, not radial, for more stability. Nothing resists impact like nylon. You can really drive on this tire.

NU May Request $110-Million Budget

The University of Nebraska budget requests for the 1969-71 biennium may hit $110 million as compared with the $72.9 million appropriated for the current biennium.

Latest budget filings with the Department of Administration request $14.7 million, with $13.6 million coming from tax funds, for improved, expanded and new services.

Last month, the university filed a "continuation" budget totalling $74.4 million, up $19.9 million over the operations budget for the current biennium.

The continuation budget provides no increases for enrollment, public service, instruction or research staff but only an average 9% annual increase in salaries.

The latest request budget additions propose $10.2 million for improved services, $3.1 million for expanded services and $1.4 million for new services.

Still to come are the capital improvements budget and the "increased workload" budget to accommodate increasing enrollments on both the Lincoln and Omaha campuses.

The 1967 Legislature appropriated $18.1 million in new tax money for construction and land acquisition, and it is expected the new request will at least equal that figure.

So far, budget askings total some $33 million higher than the current appropriations, and indications are the final figure will be higher.

Man Arrested In Connection With Forged Money Order

Lincoln police arrested a 41-year-old man late Wednesday evening in connection with passing forged U.S. postal money orders.

A police detective arrested the man, identified as Albert Ross Puryear, as Puryear was boarding a bus at the Continental Bus Depot, 10th and P.

Police said Puryear is wanted by law enforcement authorities in several other states and in Canada, Mexico and the Virgin Islands.

Police Capt. Robert Butcher said Puryear is being sought by postal authorities in Idaho and Washington State in connection with the theft of 190 blank money orders.

Capt. Butcher said 22 blank money orders were found in a briefcase said to belong to Puryear.

Lincoln authorities began a search that ended with the arrest of Puryear after one of the stolen money orders was cashed at Hovland-Swanson, 1230 O St.

Block Workers Said Key Factor For Fluoridation

Block workers are considered the key factor to approval of city water fluoridation in the Nov. 5 election, members of the Lincoln Fluoridation Council said Wednesday.

The council now has 956 men and women working for the issue, 156 above the 800 block workers used in Omaha last November when voters approved controlled fluoridation of drinking water.

The goal, according to president Warren Urbom and executive director Tom Carroll, is 1,873 workers.

University of Nebraska College of Dentistry freshman will form poll workers forces Nov. 5, council officials reported.

Urbom said individual dentists have contributed about $2,300 to the fluoridation cause since 1961 and the Lincoln District Dental Association has donated $6,600.

He said business leaders have been asked to help fund council campaign costs between now and Nov. 5.

Fed Steers Sell 25c, 50c Lower

Omaha (AP) — The bearish grip, plainly evident last week, tightened further on the slaughter cattle trade at Omaha Wednesday.

The bargaining pace was painfully slow throughout the session as prices on fed steers and heifers slumped 25-50 cents. Two previous steady and weaker sessions thus left values for the three-day period this week a full 50 under last week's closing levels.

The market, which has moved in a fairly narrow range throughout the summer, had finally run into steady downward pressure during the second week of September — when weekly slaughter under federal inspection reached an all-time higher.

Demand still centered on choice and better cattle with some weight. Lighter, underfinished cattle have taken the brunt of the decline, and these have been making up a large share of the market. Resistance to 45-46 carcass beef at wholesale also has kept the market in check, and demand has been partially slowed by the recent series of non-slaughtering Jewish holidays.

Cows, recent losers in the market, sold steady at this week's slightly stronger level. Bulls were unchanged.

Soybean Futures Prices Advance

Chicago (AP) — Soybeans futures advanced some 2½ cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Wednesday, but lost a good portion of this rise to profit taking in the closing minutes.

Grain futures trade was generally spotty after the opening activity and prices closed on an irregular tone.

A strong factor in the advance in soybeans was the use of the Taft-Hartley Act to reopen ports closed by the strike of longshoremen through the 80-day cooling off period.

Early strength in wheat futures was attributed to the purchase of some 25,400 metric tons of various wheats by India. However, after the opening, at which commercial firms and commission houses vied for wheat with local professionals, prices eased under selective liquidation.

Corn futures came under some light commercial hedging on the opening that was absorbed by brokers for milling interests and local professionals, but trade then slowed down and prices showed little movement until nearly the close.

Oats and rye prices fluctuated mostly with corn and wheat, but dealings were slow.

At the close, wheat was ¾ cent a bushel lower to 1.4 higher, December 1.21; corn was ¼ lower to ⅜ higher, December 1.10⅞; oats were ⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, December 63¼ cents; rye was ⅛ lower to ¼ higher, December 1.13 and soybeans were ¼ to 1⅜ cents higher, November 2.50½.

Man Charged With Murder Of Ex-Wife

Omaha (UPI) — First degree murder charges were filed here Wednesday afternoon against Robert D. Sargent, 38, in connection with the shooting death late Tuesday afternoon of his former wife.

Elaine Sargent, 37, was found shot in the head at her home. Her 13-year-old daughter, Joan, had run to neighbors to call police following the shooting.

Police said the two had been arguing prior to the shooting. Four shots struck the woman.

Police were still seeking the weapon. When arrested, Sargent said he could not remember where he had discarded it.

Sargent was arrested less than an hour after the shooting at a West Omaha lounge.

Sargent had been living in Nevada. The couple had four children.

Senate Reaffirms Decision For Sentinel Missile System

Washington (UPI) — The Senate met in rare secret session for two hours Wednesday and reaffirmed its decision to deploy defensive missiles designed to down any rockets fired from Communist China.

By a 45-25 vote, the Senate rejected a proposal to delay emplacement of the Sentinel anti-ballistic missile system (ABM) for one year.

The vote followed a rare, executive session of the Senate, in which newsmen and other outsiders were barred. The oaken doors of the chamber swung shut just after noon and remained closed until midafter noon.

At Cooper's Behest

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., insisted on the secret session so the Senate could freely discuss classified information about Red China's progress in obtaining nuclear weapons.

But the information apparently changed few minds. The vote for the ABM system was more lopsided than the narrow 31-28 defeat of a similar Cooper amendment last April.

Cooper and Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., had proposed an amendment to delete from the $71.9 billion defense appropriations bill $387.4 million earmarked for deployment of the Sentinel system. Money for continued research and development of the system would have remained in the measure.

Cooper and Hart spoke openly to the Senate after the secret meeting.

Cooper argued that if Red China has a missile capability by the mid-1970s as predicted, it also would have the technological ability to incorporate features enabling the missiles to penetrate the American defense system.

But Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., called such predictions "chancy."

"Estimates have been wrong before; they will be wrong again, especially ones derived from information on weapons developments by a secretive adversary," Jackson said.

Treaty Factor

Jackson contended that deployment of the ABM system, far from extending the arms race, would encourage the Soviet Union to negotiate a treaty to ban defensive weapons systems.

"Isn't it just common sense," Jackson asked, "that you can't negotiate with the Soviet Union on the question of the ABM if you don't have an ABM?"

It was the Senate's first closed meeting since 1966, when secret information about the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was disclosed. The same thing happened in 1963 during Senate debate on the nuclear test ban treaty.

Cooper and Hart argued that the Sentinel system, now estimated to cost $5 billion, would soon be expanded into a $40 billion complex which even then would not adequately protect American cities.

But the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia appeared to have convinced some members that a defensive system should be installed without delay.

Do you realize that while your older car may be worth as much as $1000 or even more to us now — the State Inspection Law LB806 could make it valueless by January 1?

This is a startling fact, but did you realize that due to Legislative Bill #LB806 becoming effective January 1, 1969 each automobile registered in Nebraska must pass a state supervised motor vehicle inspection requiring approval of Horns — Mirrors — Windshield wipers — Glass — Tires — Wheels — Rims — Mufflers and exhaust system — Brakes — Steering — Suspension — Wheel alignment — Lamps and lighting — Body

2 New Parks To Add 'Scenic Wealth'

© New York Times Service

Washington — Two new national parks and a system of scenic rivers and trails were added Wednesday to the nation's outdoor public preserve.

President Johnson signed four bills to add, as he told witnesses to the ceremony in the East Room of the White House, "still more to the scenic wealth of our country."

The signing raised to an even dozen the number of national parks, seashores and lakeshores created in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations since 1961. It also marked the passage by Congress this year of more than a dozen major conservation bills. Some of them had long and bitter histories, such as the Redwood National Park initiated Wednesday.

Cascades Park

In addition to the Redwood Park, Johnson approved a North Cascades National Park in the state of Washington, two adjacent recreation areas and an adjacent wilderness area. This area covers 1.1 million acres in what has been described as the "American Alps" close to the population centers of the Pacific Northwest.

The scenic trails measure provides for a system of urban and rural trails. The first components of the system are the Appalachian Trail in the East and the Pacific Coast Trail in the West. The legislation also calls for a study of 14 other trails for possible inclusion in the system.

The first wild scenic rivers system, which also has had a stormy background, provides for preserving all or parts of eight rivers. The measure names 27 rivers as potential additions to the system.

Johnson hailed adoption of the Redwood Park as one that "will stand for all time as a monument to the wisdom of our generation."

Omahan Named Head Of Park

Omaha (AP) — Nelson Murdock, assistant Midwest Regional Director of the National Park Service here, was named Wednesday as the first superintendent of the new Redwood National Park.

Murdock, 56, has served in the Omaha post since 1966. Prior to coming to Omaha he had served as chief of the U.S. Park Police in Washington from 1962 to 1966.

TRIP PLANS

Wealthy Honsinger Fisher 89-year-old widow, tells newsmen in Los Angeles of her plans to leave Wednesday for India to resume work she took up 15 years ago at the request of Mahatma Ghandi. She will help train teachers to work with Asian illiterates.

Viet Legislators Take Recess Trips

By BARRY KRAMER

Saigon (AP) — Members of South Vietnam's fledgling National Assembly have caught on quickly to the idea of foreign junkets during recess.

With U.S. dollars provided by the government, the legislators have gone far and wide.

At least 35 of the 137-member House of Representatives and 30 of the 60-member Senate went on official trips to almost every continent this year.

Government funds provide $25 a day to group leaders and $20 to other members of the House. Senators get $30 a day. They can also draw on other U.S. dollar funds to make ends meet overseas.

It is unofficially estimated that each legislator gets about $50 a day while on a trip. He can also buy dollars with his own piasters at the official rate, a profitable exchange since the free market cost of dollars is much higher.

Because U.S. funds support so many functions of the South Vietnamese government, it could be said that the U.S. taxpayer is indirectly footing the bill for such trips just as he foots the bill for U.S. senators and representatives who travel abroad.

The U.S. Embassy in Saigon has been encouraging trips by South Vietnamese legislators, sending instructions to U.S. embassies and officials abroad to give them every assistance.

Government sources said it is part of an expanding effort to tell South Vietnam's side of the war to the world, and it seems to be effective.

Gen. LeMay Is Wallace's Choice

Pittsburgh (AP) — Third party presidential candidate George Wallace will name retired Air Force Gen. Curtis E. LeMay as his running mate Thursday morning, sources close to Wallace said Wednesday night.

The blunt-talking, cigar-chewing "Old Ironpants" of World War II flew into Pittsburgh late in the afternoon, but he refused to talk to reporters.

Surrounded by Secret Servicemen and Wallace campaign aides, he got into a limousine and was driven away.

Later Wallace aides confirmed that LeMay, 61, an advocate of military victory in Vietnam, was Wallace's choice.

Although Wallace refused to comment on LeMay, as he has when other possible candidates were mentioned, he did announce that he would name his man at a news conference Thursday in Pittsburgh.

He wouldn't say who it would be, but he said the candidate would be present.

The views of Wallace and LeMay coincide on Vietnam. Both have argued that the United States could win the war if it beefed up the military effort.

Father Of SAC

LeMay, father of the Strategic Air Command and a famous flying general, is an ardent defender of the airplane. He once said guided missiles would never replace manned planes as weapons because missiles "can't think."

Wallace was given a screaming, foot-stomping reception by 8,000 supporters in Pittsburgh's Civic Arena, which borders on the city's biggest Negro ghetto.

A group of 200 hecklers in the balcony chanted "Wallace Go Home! Wallace Go Home!" throughout the speech. Once Wallace walked away from the rostrum, apparently disgusted, then turned around, smiled at the balcony and waved.

"Why don't you go home?" he asked. "I hired the hall."

Money Spent On Quackery Is Over $2 Billion

Chicago (UPI)—Americans spend more on quackery than on medical research and health education and are risking injury and death in their desperate search for health, officers of the American Medical Association said Wednesday.

They called health quackery an international disease that "menaces the public health."

Dr. Dwight L. Wilbur, president of the AMA, told the National Congress on Health Quackery that more than $2 billion is spent each year on quackery.
